U.S. DEMANDS VISE RIGHT ON LEAGUE MANDATES

Claims Consideration As Ally Before Council Shall Act

URGES PUBLICITY

Holds Not Even Smallest Power Can Be Debarred

(Wireless Service)

Washington, Nov. 25.—The American note to Great Britain regarding the Mesopotamia and Palestine mandates, insists that the United States, as one of the victorious Allies, must be considered concerning mandates, according to the New York Times.

In addition, the note demands that the mandates be submitted to America even before going to the League of Nations' Council. America claims the same right for even the smallest Allied power.

The note also proposes that all mandates be made public before their submission to the League Council so that all Governments may have ample opportunity to safeguard their interests.

MORE DETAIL GIVEN

A further despatch, giving fuller detail of the note despatched by Secretary of State Colby reads as follows:

The United States expects to be heard from regarding the terms of any mandate before it becomes effective. The position of the United States is defined in the note from Secretary of State Colby to Foreign Secretary Curzon of Great Britain dated November 20 and published today, and which officially discusses the Mesopotamia oil fields. The note is an answer to the British note of August 9, but which was never published.

The note says that the United States, as a participant of the war, was a contributor to its success and cannot consider any associated power as being debarred from discussion of any of the war's consequences or from participation in the rights under the treaties.

Secretary Colby says that the United States, "Welcomes your pledges" that Great Britain does not intend "any preferred position in own interest."

The note continues: "The United States consistently urged, as of the utmost importance for the future and the peace of the world, that alien territory be so administered as to assure equal treatment of the commerce of all nations."

TO U.S. BEFORE COUNCIL

Referring to Great Britain's statement that the drafts of the mandates of Mesopotamia and Palestine would be communicated to the League Council after they had been approved by the powers concerned, Secretary Colby requests that the drafts be communicated to the United States before submission to the Council.

Pipe Organ Is Put In Japanese Home

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Nov. 25.—Marquis Rairin Takugawa's heir, Mr. Yorisada Takugawa's installation of a large fine-toned English-made pipe organ in his private concert auditorium, (which is a splendid building and unique in the Far East, has created a furore in the musical circles of Tokio.

The concerts which he is holding are attended by the Imperial Princes and Princesses, members of the diplomatic corps and the nobility.

The large crowds which they attract are a mark of the increasing enthusiasm for western music.

Mr. Tokugawa was a student at Cambridge and is extremely pro-British in his views.

Koya Copper Mines Tied Up By Strike

Tokio, Nov. 25.—The copper miners of Koya have voted to strike, following a 20 percent reduction in their wages. Miners in neighboring districts have declared a sympathy strike, and 3,000 men are consequently idle.

Quezon Takes Rap At U.S. Administration In The Philippines

(Wireless Service)

Manila, Nov. 24.—Manuel Quezon, in a speech before the Senate, criticised the members of the Philippine Supreme Court for what he termed "mixing in politics."

Quezon, who is president of the Senate, mentioned by name the American Justices Johnson and Malcolm. Justice Johnson is en route to his home in Ohio on the U. S. Army transport Sherman.

Speaking of the conduct of the Government, Quezon said, in part, "Every Filipino will be with me when I say that I prefer a Filipino Government administrated like Hell than one run like Heaven but not by Filipinos."

ANOTHER LAWSUIT ADDED TO MASS OF BOULON TANGLE

Wife Of Former Manager Of Gaston, Williams, Wigmore, Presents Claim

In another civil action filed yesterday in the United States Court for China, a new angle is developed in the litigation between the Shanghai branch of Gaston, Williams and Wigmore and Mr. Ferdinand G. Boulon, former manager of the company's branch here. The latest suit is filed by Mr. Boulon as attorney for his wife, Mrs. Mary Boulon, and the purpose set forth is to recover the sum of Taels 2,000 alleged to be due to Mrs. Boulon from the firm.

The Boulon litigation, which has come to occupy a prominent place in public interest, opened when, on complaint of Gaston, Williams and Wigmore, informations carrying ten specific charges of embezzlement of an aggregate sum of Taels 25,000 were filed against Mr. Boulon after his return from a trip to America last summer.

HELD FOR TRIAL

As the outcome of a hearing held before United States Commissioner F. J. Schuhl three of the ten charges of the informations were eliminated. The former manager of the company's Shanghai branch was held on the seven remaining charges for trial in the United States Court for China.

It was shortly after these proceedings ended that Mr. Boulon began a civil suit against the company seeking to recover Taels 14,000 and Gold $15000 that he alleges is due for salary, commissions and loans. The next step in the case was taken when the Government elected two of the seven charges for which Mr. Boulon had been held by the U.S. Commissioner upon which to go to trial and warrants were issued by the United States District Attorney, Maj. C. P. Holcomb, covering these charges.

SHIPPED FROM NEW YORK

At the time Mr. Boulon was arraigned on these charges his attorney, Mr. R. S. Haskell, sought to have precedence given to the civil action Mr. Boulon had filed over the criminal charges, but this was denied by Judge Lobingier, who set the time of the criminal trial for December 2.

According to allegations set forth in the suit filed yesterday Mrs. Boulon alleges that on June 12 last the New York office of Gaston, Williams and Wigmore received from her a quantity of silverware, furniture, bedding and household equipment, agreeing to forward it to Shanghai for delivery to her. She alleges that these things were shipped from New York to Shanghai and that they have not been delivered to her in accordance with agreement. On these grounds she seeks to recover the sum of Taels 2,000.

Local Man Is Arrested, Charged With Gem Theft As He Arrives In America

Robert L. Ward Apprehended By Federal Authorities In Seattle; Five Informations Lodged Against Him In United States Court Here

(Wireless Service)

Seattle, Wash., November 25.—A search of the baggage of Robert L. Ward, of Shanghai, revealed 42 pieces of jewelry and other jewelry of considerable value alleged to have been stolen in Shanghai, according to Federal officials.

Ward, when placed under arrest, said that he could explain how he came to have the articles in his possession to the Chinese secretary. The accused also claims to have served in the anti-Bolshevik army of Kolchak in Siberia.

Simultaneously with the news carried in the wireless despatch quoted above, comes the word that five informations charging embezzlement, obtaining money under false pretenses and forgery have been lodged against Ward in the United States Court for China here.

The arrested man sailed from Shanghai for Seattle several weeks ago and the United States authorities have been awaiting word of his arrest when he reached the other side of the Pacific.

Of the charges filed against him in the local Court three allege embezzlement of money and jewelry to the value of about Tls. 29,000 which was entrusted to him. These charges are filed on behalf of Mr. C. Y. Chang, secretary and treasurer of the Shanghai Motors Corporation, of which Ward was head. The fourth information alleges that, by false representations, he secured a letter of credit for $20,000 shortly before leaving on the trip to America.

The fifth charge is that of the forgery of a letter to the American Consulate wherein permission was sought to allow a Chinese to enter the United States. The letter sets forth that the Chinese was going to the States as a business man, whereas in reality he had previously been a "boy" in a local hotel.

Mr. Ward first came to Shanghai about two years ago and for a time was connected with a local banking institution. He later organised the Shanghai Motors Corporation and it was ostensibly in the interests of this concern that he sailed on his present trip to the States.

He came somewhat into the public eye during the forepart of last month when a charge of assault was lodged against him in the American Court by Mr. Everard C. Endt, following a fight which occurred in a room at the Burlington Hotel on the night of September 18. Mr. Endt sought to have the defendant put under bond to keep the peace but the charge was withdrawn after the preliminary hearing had opened.

Sinn Fein Dynamiters Plot Against Liverpool And Manchester, Report

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 24.—The Government tonight published certain documents recently seized, revealing the existence of an elaborate Sinn Fein plot for the destruction of the great electric power-station and pumphouses at Manchester and of the gates of the docks at Liverpool. The plans had been worked out in every detail, and had evidently been drafted by men competent in technical matters.

How carefully it was sought to obtain the maximum effect is shown by one of the documents, from which it appears that it was calculated that, when the Manchester plan was carried out "Manchester would have to shut down, as all the furnaces are worked by electric blast. Moreover, the coal mines will have to close down, and might even be destroyed, as pumping would cease, while 50 percent of the Manchester factories depend for their current on this power-station."

PLANNED BY SPY

The details of the plan were worked out by a Sinn Fein spy, who describes his visit to the station, and points out how best each point should be attacked. He suggested that the best time for the raid would be nine o'clock on a Sunday morning, and it is significant that it was at this time that the Dublin murders occurred.

The plans provided for the employment at Manchester of 65 armed men and five officers. This party was to be sub-divided, and each section detailed off for a certain principal point, which was to be attacked with sledge-hammers, fire and explosives.

The plan for the destruction of the Liverpool dock-gates contemplated the infliction of an incalculable amount of damage, not alone to the docks themselves, but also to the shipping in them, and it would have involved a stoppage of the whole work in the docks for many days. Here it was proposed to utilise 120 armed men, including 27 engineers.

The idea was that the dock-gates should be blown in with high explosive and the power-stations destroyed. It was intended to precede this attack, with a view to causing a diversion, by starting numerous fires in cotton and other warehouses, which were to be set alight half an hour before the main operations.

BOMBERS ARE SHOT

The graphic story of the shooting of three prominent Sinn Feiners—Richard McKee, T. C. Clune, and Peter Clancy—is told in an official statement from Dublin Castle.

These men were arrested on Saturday, and confined in the guard-room at Bridewell Jail, which contained a large amount of army material. While the sentry's back was turned, one of the prisoners threw a Mills bomb, which, however, failed to detonate. Another seized a rifle and fired at the guard, but missed. The third attacked the guard with a shovel.

All three men were shot dead.

Clancy was one of the conspirators who attempted the murder of Lord French, while McKee is said to have been the chief to the Sinn Fein explosives department.

Before the opening of the Irish debates in Parliament, news was

Peking Is Perplexed By Hupeh Tuchun's Defiance

(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Peking, November 26.—The Central Government was greatly perplexed over the telegram from Hankow reporting that General Wang Chuan-yuan, the Tuchun of Hupeh, has forced Mr. Hsia Shou-kang, the Civil Governor appointed by Peking, to leave Wuchang at the point of the sword.

The act of Wang is regarded here as a defiance against the authority of the Central administration.

The Japanese Legation is drafting a reply to China's demand over the escape of Little Hsu from the legation premises. It strongly refutes the contention that the Japanese Legation is responsible for guarding political refugees and states that China's act in placing police guards at the entrances of the Legation Quarters is a tacit recognition that this is the case.

Japan is willing to abrogate the Military Pact, it is definitely announced. She will do so by a joint note with China. The condition that Japanese should police the Chinese Eastern Railway zone will be made a separate issue and not in connection with the pact.

Paotingfu reports say that General Tsao Kun and Wu Pei-fu are angered over the action of Chang Tso-lin, the Fengtien Tuchun, in blocking the appointment of General Wang Shih-chen to the Kiangsu Tuchunship.

WILSON IS INVITED TO BE MEDIATOR FOR LEAGUE

President Requested To Settle Dispute As To Armenia

FREE MOSLEMS

Agreement Reached By Russian Reds And Turk Leaders

(Wireless Service)

Geneva, Nov. 25.—The League of Nations Council has cabled President Wilson asking him whether the United States would act as mediator between the Turkish Nationalists and Armenians.

At the same time, messages were sent to various Powers with the inquiry whether any of them would accept the role.

There will be no meeting of the League Assembly today in order to permit the members to devote themselves to committee work.

Due to the character of the considerations of the various committees, it is possible that there will be no session of the Assembly tomorrow, either.

PROGRESSING SLOWLY

While some of the committees reported they were progressing it was not expected that they would arrive at any speedy decisions for the matters under consideration require slow and sure solutions.

(Reuter's Service)

Constantinople, Nov. 24.—The Associated Press telegraphs that the following agreement has been reached by the Russian Bolsheviki and the Turkish Nationalists under Mustapha Kemal.

Assurances are given of Turkish territorial integrity and of the restoration to Turkish administration of those regions inhabited entirely by Turks. Turkish control to be established in Arabia and Syria. The Russians to have facilities for developing communism in Turkey.

The two parties jointly agree to liberate the Moslem countries of India, Algeria, Morocco and Egypt from the foreign yoke, granting them independence.

Russia recognises the independence of the Moslem states within her territories. Russia agrees to aid Turkey financially and to send her two more army corps if necessary.

Geneva, November 25.—The various commissions of the Assembly of the League of Nations are continuing their work. The Second Commission (on Technical Organisation) alone appears ready to present its report to the Assembly at tomorrow morning's session.

Geneva, November 25.—Previous to the opening of the present session of the League of Nations Assembly, Albania lodged an application for admission to the league.

The League Council, in presenting the application, recommended the recognition of Albania as an independent sovereign power.

M. Viviani represents France on the subcommittee which is charged with consideration of the application.

OFFICIAL REPORT

Bordeaux, November 25 (by wireless to Koukaza).—The following is the text of an official French report of today's proceedings of the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva:

The Assembly has decided to adjourn till plenary sittings till Tuesday, in order to facilitate the work of the Commissions.

The Council of the League met today and further discussed the Armenian question. The text was adopted of the two telegrams which the Council will send—

(1) to all the members of the League;

(2) to the Government of the United States.

The telegram to the United States begins by quoting the Assembly's resolution of November 22, requesting the Council to come to an agreement with all the Governments concerned with a view to entrusting some Power with the task of taking the necessary steps to put an end to hostilities between Armenia and the Kemalists.

DEPLORE TRAGEDY

The telegram then proceeds, "The Council of the League, after consideration, has decided to submit

LIEN YIN'S FATHER WANTS CHU'S AUTO SOLD TO AID HIM

Wang Chang-fah Of Murdered Flag Girl Seeks Financial Help

Wang Chang-fah, father of Lien Yin, the sing song girl beauty murdered by Yen Jui-sung and Woo Tsung-faung who paid the penalty with their lives last Wednesday, has filed a motion in the office of the local Defense Commissioner, asking for the sale of the motor-car owned by Chu Chi-chia, the son of the former Chairman of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, Chu Pao-san.

The motion was made on the ground that the victim was the only source of income to the old man and since her murder Wang and his family have been deprived of their means of support. The petitioner contended further that without the car, the murder could not have been committed.

It will be remembered that it was brought out in evidence in the local courts that Yen borrowed the car from young Chu to commit the crime although it was contended that Chu had no previous knowledge of the proposed action of Yen, the principal murderer, at the time of the request.

CHITA ELECTIONS FIXED BY LEADERS FOR JANUARY 5

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, Nov. 25.—The Vladivostok delegates to the Chita Conference are expected to return tomorrow. One of the delegates who represents the Peasants' party has telegraphed, requesting the Peasant members of the Assembly to meet him, as he wishes to impart to them certain information which he was unable to send from Chita.

The new Government at Chita has fixed January 5 for the general election, and is convening Parliament for January 25.

The Communists here are perturbed, in view of the impending arrival of Gen. Kappel's forces in the Maritime Province.

The Japanese mission has arrived from Chita, also the Russian Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs

Tokio Plans To Cut Down Living Costs

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

PEKING SHANGHAI AIR SERVICE GIVEN CABINET SANCTION

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Nov. 26.—The Official Gazette publishes a Cabinet order, sanctioning the inauguration of an air service between Peking and Shanghai, with intermediate stations at Tsinan, Hsuchow and Nanking, and also 80 landing grounds.

It is intended that for the first six months the service shall only carry mails, and after that, when public confidence has been secured, to branch out into carrying passenger and goods traffic. It is expected that the revenue will exceed the monthly expenditure of $40,000 when the service is fully established.

The arrangements are in the capable hands of Chen Hung and Coloned Holt. The Chiaotungpu has approved of the scheme.

Japan In Plan To Advance Aviation

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Nov. 25.—The War Office is making plans for a 2,000 mile flight from Tokio to Formosa and a subsequent flight from the Island of Hokkaido to Formosa in order to avoid being outdone by the progress which has been made in aviation by other nations.

TWO DEAD, TWO DYING; THREE CARS SMASHED

Honors For 1920 Are Awarded To Victim After Death

DISTANCE EVENT

Another Tragedy Added To California Speed Course Record

(By Wireless)

Los Angeles, Nov. 25.—Gaston Chevrolet and Lyall Joll, the mechanician with Eddie O'Donnell, were killed today in the most thrilling automobile race ever held in this locality. Eddie O'Donnell himself was probably fatally injured while John Bresnahan, Chevrolet's mechanician, is said to be probably dying.

The tragedy occcurred during the 250-mile speedway race. Chevrolet, O'Donnell and Joe Thomas were trying to make up the half dozen laps they were behind the leaders. On the 115th lap Chevrolet while trying to pass Thomas, swept around and struck O'Donnell's car.

In a flash all the cars came together in a pile. Chevrolet and Joll were dead when extricated from the mass of wreckage.

Searles won the event with no stops in two hours, 25 minutes, 20 seconds. Edward Miller was second, his time being two hours, 27 minutes, 14 seconds. Eddie Hearne was third. His time was two hours, 27 minutes, 27 seconds.

It developed from computation at the conclusion of the meet that Chevrolet had won the 1920 championship on points.

British Working To Aid France Recover

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Nov. 25.—Several of the British papers devote their editorials today to the work of the British League for the relief of the devastated regions of France, and to the speech delivered by Lord Derby at the Guild Hall yesterday.

The Daily Telegraph reminds its readers that it was as much for the defense of Great Britain as of France that the latter country suffered all the devastation of war, and expresses the hope that the League's appeal will prompt many new "adoptions" of places in France.

The Morning Post recounts more particularly that part of Lord Derby's speech advocating the transformation of the Entente Cordiale into an alliance.

"With Lord Derby," states this journal, "we believe that an alliance with France is the best guarantee of the peace of the world, and the security of the British Empire."

Foreign Office In Note To Japanese On Yenchi Troops

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, November 26.—The Waichiaopu, in a further Note, dated November 23 to the Japanese Legation, states that the Government is awaiting details regarding the numbers and disposition of the Chinese troops in the Yenchi region. When these are received they will be handed to the Japanese Legation.

The Waichiaopu again emphasises that it is impossible for the Chinese Government to recognise Japan's right to send troops in the event of future disturbances.

ALBANIA TROUBLE BREWS

BISHOP LAMBUTH SPEAKS

In his address Bishop Lambuth declared that China had come to her most marvellous awakening in a thousand years and perhaps in all her history. He told of the extent, character and influence of the work done by the Christian Literature Society, paid a tribute to the men who have been factors in its history and called attention to some of the books published which have created widespread interest.

"We have as our goal the establishment of God's Kingdom in the hearts of individuals and in the life of a great nation," he said. "The process, whether through the living voice or the printed page is an educational one and is fundamental in the making of the Gospel of Jesus Christ effective in the character and consciousness of men. It can only be performed by trained leaders in every class of society and every rank of life, private and public, civil and official. It is the process by which the might of the Christian spirit shall be brought to pervade the entire life of the entire world of men."

CHINA'S RENAISSANCE

Bishop Lambuth spoke of the extent and need of the Society's work, its opportunity and potentiality. "China is in the midst of her renaissance," he said, "and in reaching her consciousness at this time we have a tremendous advantage over the reformers of Europe 300 years ago in that we have history, and experience, behind us and are dealing with a nation already literary in its taste and traditions.

"The brain of the nations' thinkers and rulers must be reached. The heart of the common people must be touched.

"The common man is the ultimate field of all reform movements—labor must be made productive and remunerative, education must reach down to him, social reforms must find root in this soil and religion must here find its home and reinforcing point.

"Nearly all great questions of the day and those of the future are and will be wrapped up in these four issues. They are moral issues for all great issues are in the last analysis moral issues and must be settled or fought out on a moral basis with a Christian spirit.

"It is the Christian statesman who must take the long view beforehanded and be in time with preventive measures."

HERCULEAN TASK

In discussing the future for the organisation, Bishop Lambuth said: "The task before the Christian Literature Society is herculean—its governing boards never realised its dimensions.

"It must help eliminate illiteracy, uproot superstition, substitute truth for what science may destroy, eradicate from the nation long habits of life which have almost become instinctive, and it must create ideals and an enthusiasm for humanity.

"China needs to be informed. China needs to change her attitude. China needs to change her heart."

ANNUAL REPORT OUT

The Society has issued its annual report, the thirty-third, in which it describes the work done during the past year and outlines as its aims for the future:

"1.—To ask all non-contributing Boards to help with grants of men and money. The Christian Literature Society of Japan is supported by a fixed percentage of each Board's appropriation for that Field. Why not adopt the same liberal policy towards the China Christian Literature Society?

"2.—To search for suitable men and women on the field, and assist them in every possible way to carry out their desire to help Christian Literature.

"3.—To do our share in the China for Christ Movement with which we are in close touch. It will need a present day appeal through the printed page. We are ambitious to have a share.

"5.—To encourage indigenous effort to produce literature. The Society has always kept this in view, though so far with indifferent success. But it is an ideal not to be forgotten.

"6.—To enlist more Chinese on our directorate and sub-committees in harmony with the policy of the National Conference of 1921 which is to be half Chinese and half foreign. We took to have a Chinese Associate General Secretary.

"7.—To cultivate the interest of friends, new and old, and by some means put them in direct touch with our work in Shanghai. The issue of a single yearly report is obviously insufficient to start an interest or feed a continuous flame.

"8.—To continue our policy of emphasising the fundamental truths of Christianity in our Literature.

WOMAN'S CLUB HEARS LECTURE ON PORCELAINS

Rare and valuable porcelains were exhibited at the meeting of the Literary Department of the American Woman's Club held at the Royal Asiatic Society's hall yesterday afternoon.

The porcelains were loaned to the club by Mr. Kleene and Mr. Koo Chin-che and included porcelains of caledon and flambe. The flambe porcelains were of blue, peach, brown, coffee color, brown with gold dust and China white.

Mrs. H. K. Wright read a paper on Chinese porcelains specialising on Blanc de Chine and Mrs. W. S. Ward spoke on "one color" porcelains. Mrs. H. A. Wilbur, chairman of the department, presided.

Chauffeur Gets Year For Manslaughter

The chauffeur of the motor truck which ran down and killed a Chinese child on North Chekiang Road last Saturday was sentenced to one year's imprisonment on the charge of manslaughter by the Mixed Court yesterday. The owner of the truck, who was riding on it at the time the child was killed, was ordered to pay $50 to the victim's father.

Two other chauffeurs who appeared on charges of improper driving were fined $5 each and a third, who nearly ran into the prison van as it was conveying a load of prisoners along Boone Road from the Mixed Court, was fined $15.

Over 200 Greet S. K. Tsao At Reception In Y.M.C.A.

Dr. C. T. Wang Pays Tribute To Work Done By Returning Secretary

Over two hundred officers of the Y.M.C.A. and friends of Mr. S. K. Tsao crowded the boys' department of the Y.M.C.A. building yesterday to extend formal greetings to him upon his return from the United States.

Dr. C. T. Wang, China's envoy at Versailles and president of the local association, made the principal address of welcome. Mr. Tsao gave his impressions in America and Mr. E. J. Cooper, president of a knitting works in the United States, who gave up his remunerative job to serve with the Y.M.C.A. in France, also spoke.

Mr. James Yen, who recently returned from Europe after serving with the Y.M.C.A. over two years with the Chinese laborers in France, and Mr. Ruby gave vocal solos.

WANG LAUDS TSAO

A glowing tribute was paid by Dr. Wang to Mr. Tsao for his devotion to the Y.M.C.A. work, saying that he had been actively identified with the movement over since its institution in China.

"At the beginning," said Dr. Wang, "people did not quite see the object and aim of the movement and Mr. Tsao encountered an uphill fight when he was first engaged in the work. Today after over 20 years of hard labor, Mr. Tsao has the satisfaction of seeing the fruits of his own work.

"In this connection, Mr. Wang also mentioned feelingly the work done by Dr. W. W. Yen, Mr. Louis and the late Mr. Tong Kai-son.

"The Shanghai organisation boasts of a membership of 4,000 and has the largest boys' department in the world," said Mr. Wang. "The annual budget amounts to $100,000 and the association here is considered as the model and mother of the associations throughout the country."

Dr. Wang concluded by appealing to the audience for generous support of the famine relief work, to which Mr. Tsao will devote a great part of his time, as well as the proposal to establish a branch in the French Concession which Mr. Tsao will aid.

MR. TSAO REPLIES

When he rose to reply, Mr. Tsao reminded the hearers that in enumerating the big leaders in the Y.M.C.A. movement, Dr. Wang had left out his own name. While he had little chance to study the movement in the United States, Mr. Tsao said that he was very impressed with the pirit of sacrifice of the American people. It seemed to him that everyone sacrificed his own views and interest in order that the public may be benefitted.

"President Wilson was an ardent peace advocate," said Mr. Tsao, "but when the Germans adopted the submarine warfare, he went to war. Remember he was elected because of his peace platform. But when he went to war, every American backed him up. When he favored peace or war, he sacrificed his personal views to act in unison with the public." Mr. Tsao saw in that spirit the greatest and strongest power a nation could have.

The speaker said while he was impressed with the marvelous commercial progress of the country he was still more impressed with the spirit of the capitalists. The men who made the money did not alone enjoy the wealth but allowed the public to derive benefits from it.

IGNORANT OF CHINA

The American people, however, Mr. Tsao said, know very little about China and are anxious to learn about the country, so he was taxed to the utmost in speechmaking. Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese Minister to Washington, according to Mr. Tsao, was the best orator among the Washington diplomats and was the most popular envoy in the American capital.

The speaker related his experience with the Chinese students in the United States and emphasised the importance of cooperation among Chinese abroad in order to have the nation better understood and have the people of America more favorably impressed.

He concluded by appealing to his well-wishers to assist the association and thus help the Republic of China.

Among those present at the reception were Mr. Y. C. Tong Dr. T. H. Lee, Mr. William W. Lockwood, Mr. George A. Fitch, Mr. N. L. Han, Dr. Fong F. Sec, Mr. K. P. Chen, Mr. S. C. Chu, Mr. S. U. Zau, Mr. A. S. F. Chur, Mr. J. C. Clarke, Mr. J. H. Goldart, Mr. K. S. Lee, Dr. H. C. Mei, Miss Wang and Messrs. Wood and Davis.

FEAR TROOPS WILL BLOCK FAMINE AID

Mutineers Are Looting Districts In Stricken Areas

RELIEF WORK HIT

American Food Supplies For Chihli Interior Are In Danger

(By Wireless)

Tientsin, Nov. 26.—Mutinous Chinese soldiers, now raiding in the famine district, endanger American food supplies en route to the interior of Chihli, and the Rev. Perry Scott, the Anglican Mission field agent at Peking, says that all relief work in that section may be interrupted and possibly nullified.

Leading these mutineers, who are looting already the reduced country between Paotingfu and Hochienfu, spreading southward to Anping and Hsienhsien—the latter place being the site of the granaries and American food supplies from Manila—are hordes from the 11th Division under General Li, whose headquarters are with General Tsao Kun at Paotingfu. His troops are billeted among the villages as far east as Hochienfu.

RABBLE SEIZES GRAIN

These troops were defeated in the summer fighting in Honan having fled Northward from the vicinity of Hankow so precipitately that their supplies were left behind. They have since been living off the country, taking no part in the later fighting against the Anfuites in Chihli.

The Division is nothing but a rabble of the type Villa led in Mexico and is wholly irresponsible. The men, unpaid for 14 months, have cleaned up what little grain existed in the famine district. General Li came to Hochienfu, where the mutineers are the most numerous, forcing a loan from the merchants sufficient to pay each man four Mexican dollars, which was quickly spent. On the night of November 1, aided by the riff-raff of the neighborhood, the mutineers raided the stores of Hochienfu.

VILLAGE IS RAIDED

Since then, they have been joined by wholesale deserters from the unfed 15th and 16th Divisions and on the night of November 8 while the first American relief supplies were being transferred to smaller boats at Tsangchiachiao, 15 miles south of Hochienfu, word came that the mutineers were expected to raid homes that night and three foreigners, all women teachers, took refuge with the English missionary, Rev. C. O. McDouglas, who sent word by courier to the American party, leaving at ten o'clock that night, that a raid was momentarily expected and the mission was barricaded.

The courier reached the relief party at six o'clock of the morning of the 9th. One of the American party was sent to investigate, returning late the same night with the information that the raid was not important but extreme uneasiness was felt by McDouglas over possible recurrent visits of the mutineers. He also brought a rumor that General Tsao Kun was sending trustworthy troops to deal with the rioters, but this was not confirmed.

The next day 32 mutineers raided a village only five miles from Anping, carrying off two calves and other loot, making Griffith apprehensive for the safety of the supplies the party was bringing as only 20 soldiers comprise the Anping garrison. Near Ling Cha Shan, on the 10th, but a few miles from where the relief supplies were passing, soldiers led by an officer raided a farmer's house, sacking the home and throwing two of the family of three into a well.

There is a danger that the mutineers will be joined by the starving populace within a month and carry off what supplies are being rushed up before the river freezes.

ASK MILITARY ESCORT

Taking a lesson from this, Director Baker, of the American Red Cross, who is now about ready to send supplies through Tientsin to Techow—the base of relief operations from Shantung north to Tsinanfu and the Yellow River and east of the Grand Canal—asks Colonel Morrow, of the 15th, U.S. Army Infantry, for an escort to go with the shipment, which goes by rail, and a detail of troops to remain with the supplies at Techow. Organisers now afield there are arranging to start actual relief December first, after which they will return for labor for building roads.

Until Griffith canvassed Anping County through the village elders a census was never attempted there. Profiting by the experience, the Anglican Mission of Peking sent batches of Chinese, accompanied by scouts from the Church of England School, to work in groups of four in other stricken Chihli counties, making their return on a house to house canvass. These reports will enable distribution to be made along the lines that Griffith employs.

COMMITTEES CRITICISED

Desperate efforts are being made to start distribution in devastated Hsien-hsien early in December and part of the food is now going up river under the supervision of the Rev. B. M. McOwan, Doctor J. S. Ellis and Lieutenant Neff, 15th U.S. Infantry, to be available there at that time. Chiefly, this section will be worked, however, by the London Mission, under the Rev. Arnold Bryson, operating out of Tasangchow on the Peking-Hankow Railway as a base since military operations in the north permit limited shipments via Peking. The Shansi province can receive little aid while Honan relief will be directed by the local committee.

It is certain that only a very small proportion of the population of the affected areas are saveable, owing to, first, the lack of means of transportation, and second, the lack of sufficient supplies. Only those supplies sent to the stricken through foreigners are sure of reaching their destination and all persons are advised strongly against letting Chinese committees handle any money as it dwindles amazingly.

The refugee colony, housed in crude huts near the race course in Tientsin, is crowding up rapidly and now numbers 15,000. No attention is paid to sanitation nor to the problem of feeding. No work is being done by any of the colony.

Shensi Situation Demands Help

The following report of conditions in Shensi has been received by the International Famine Relief Committee from the Rev. James Watson, English Baptist Mission, San Yuen Hsien, Shensi.

In common with other parts of North China, great distress prevails in Central Shensi at the present time as the result of the long drought which prevailed throughout the Spring and Summer. Up to the time when rain fell at the beginning of the 8th moon, no snow or rain had fallen, beyond slight occasional showers, for ever 8 months in all this great area North of the Wei river. The Sian plain, South of the Wei, had better luck, and so the crops there, whilst not up to anything like a normal year, have been sufficient to relieve people from the feeling of want and distress.

In the Northern area, the drought was long and severe and very extensive, covering in its scope at least 17 counties with an aggregate population of 3,300,000.

CHILDREN SUFFER

I am informed on fairly reliable authority, and after careful sifting of evidence, that 2,700,000 of these are in dire distress for want of grain.

Thousands of the very poorest began to trek out of the province as far back as July last, and although rain has come in sufficient quantities to sow for next year, still the sowing has meant giving up the last little stocks of grain left, and so the treking continues. Now the cold weather is on, and the sufferings of little children from cold and hunger on the road is hard to describe.

It may be asked why one year of drought has so impoverished the province. It ought not to have done, so, for the areas affected are usually very productive, but the fact is that the two previous years yielded very poor crops, and this year the amount of harvest reaped, taken all round, was only about sufficient to pay back for the seed thrown into the soil.

CROP IS DESTROYED

In two or three of the counties—notably Yao Chow, Pei T'ung Kwan, and Pai Shwei, what was a promising crop was completely destroyed by a severe hail storm just a week or two before the time for reaping. Whilst we principally depend on the wheat crops as the staple product of this area, yet in a bad year, the autumn crops help to eke out the situation and save from actual want or distress.

But here again the drought has killed all hopes, for the millet and sorghum, etc. this year is practically nil.

When the rain came it was too late to do more than increase the length of the stalk and so some fodder for animals has been secured, but otherwise the result is not a factor to help the general situation. Buckwheat, the poorest of all cereals in the opinion of local farmers, was planted too late, and whilst the rain helped to grow it, yet it has not filled in the ear, and besides, the amount seen will even in the best of cases only help over a month or so of the distress.

SEED COST IS HIGH

The average crop will be about 3 tou per man as against 6 tou in a normal year, but the area planted is less than normally because of the late break up of the drought, and the cost of seed making it difficult to plant larger areas. Farmers were also afraid to risk putting in too much seed lest the frosts should come down and nip the grain before it had fully matured which really has happened. Had the drought broken a fortnight or three weeks earlier, the buckwheat and cotton crops would have helped to save the situation marvelously.

One farmer told me today that whereas in normal years he usually gathers in 100 catties of cotton for a certain acreage, this year he has taken only 10 catty, and he added, this may be regarded as about the average yield this year all over this district. The quality also is much poorer than ordinarily.

Many people have died as the result of heat stroke whilst on the trek this last summer; others again have died of starvation, and I have heard of not a few who have been led to take their own lives or those of their children, but it is to be hoped that these later two classes are not very numerous.

Even to the poor Chinese life is dear and he struggles along on roots and tree leaves, also tree seeds—anything at all that will help to eke the slenderest of existences.

RAIN HAS HELPED

Now that the trees are shedding their leaves and the roots are drying up, one wonders what next they will take to in the way of substitutes! Since the rains came the situation has been much relieved. Wheat for next year has been sown and to look at the fields now, it is difficult to realise there is any distress at all. People's hearts have the comforting thought that if they can but pull through the winter, there is the prospect of better times ahead! but for the present the need is acute, as many of the people put their last little stock of grain into the soil, and are now faced with starvation.

Numbers of such are known to me personally, and many of them are saying goodbye to me every week as they start off up into the Northern hills, or across to Kansuh.

A Chinese and foreign committee has been formed to deal with the situation, and they have under their consideration one or two schemes to provide work for refugees, and at the same time benefit the province in a way that would lesson the danger from drought in years to come.

These schemes deal with irrigation works and channels, and from all reports are considered well worthy of attention.

IRREGATION PLANS

Dr. Duncan late of the T'ai Yuan University, when a missionary in this province thought out a scheme for leading down water on to the plain, and his scheme is the basis for the plans today.

If famine funds could be raised in sufficient quantity to engage expert advice and make the working out a possibility a great boon—present and future—would be conferred on this part of the province. At least 7 out of the 17 counties at present affected by drought, would be assured as far as human power could make it against any recurrance of the present trouble, and I believe the estimated cost of the present scheme would not exceed 50,000 taels.

Rev. Evan Morgan of Shanghai is interesting himself in this scheme. He is an old resident in those parts, known and highly spoken of by many, and we hope his efforts will materialise in something being done. The four Chinese members of this Committee of management for relief of distress are all well known local Chinese, and can be trusted in the disbursement of funds committed to their care.

We make a strong appeal for a share in the funds that are being raised for famine distress, and thank those friends who have already come so generously to our help.

The following area is affected in North Central Shensi, principally North of the Wei River.—Counties: San Yuan Hsien, Ching Yang Hsien, Kao Ling Hsien, Lin T'ung and Wei Nan Hsien (i.e. the parts of these two counties North of the Wei) Ho Yang Hsien, Ch'eng Ch'eng Hsien, Pai Shwei Hsien, P'u Ch'eng Hsien, Fu P'ing Hsien, Pei T'ung Kwan, Yao Hsien, Ch'un Hwa Hsien, Li Ch'uan Hsien, Ch'ien Hsien.

(I understand that the distress is not so acute in Fu P'ing, Li Ch'uan, and Ch'ien Hsien, but our Committee here have put these 15 places on equality of need.

There are also two needy Hsien in the Southern mountains, viz. Shang Chow, and Lon Nan Hsien).

Manila Chinese Make Contribution

The Chinese community of Manila has sent to the international committee on the Chinese relief at Peking the amount of 340,000 pesos.

This amount was sent in three installments, the first amount being 200,000 pesos; the second 20,000 pesos; and the third 120,000 pesos. Together with this last amount 2,000 pieces of clothing sewed by the ladies of Manila under the direction of Mrs. Wallace were also sent.

The former plan of the Chinese committee to buy foodstuffs in the islands to be sent by means of the army transports has now been completely abandoned due to the rise in the cost of rice and other cereals.

It is stated that such articles will no longer be sent to China but that money instead to be placed at the disposal of international committee at Peking will continue to be mailed.

MEASURES IN SHANTUNG

More than 30 cities in Shantung are effected by the drought and 4,000,000 people are starving, according to a report made to the press by the Shantung Famine Relief Association head by Mr. Lu Hai-wei, chairman of the Chinese Red Cross.

The Association has approved the proposal of the American Red Cross to advance the some of 40,000-odd dollars for the purpose of purchasing the land in connection with the construction under American Red Cross authorities of a automobile highway between Tehchow and Lingching by the famine sufferers. The society is contributing G.$500,000 for this work.

The action of the Shantung relief society is meeting the approval and endorsement of the Ministry of Finance, the Military Governor of Hupeh, the Civil Governor of Shantung, and other officials who have pledged their support for the cause.

OAK FLOORING AND PANELLING

Stand The Hard Test Of Time

When installing any other wood than Oak for flooring or panelling, one item must be taken into consideration in counting the cost, and that is the fact that in a very few years the floor will have to be renewed. With Oak, however, at the end of a quarter of a century, the flooring and panelling is not only more pleasing to the eye than when new, but is also worth a great deal more.

WE SUPPLY OAK FOR FLOORING, WAINSCOTING, PANELLING, ETC., ETC., KILN-DRIED AND QUALITY GUARANTEED

We give all orders personal attention. After you have placed your order with us, the flooring will be laid and all work carried out under the personal supervision of a foreign expert of the Company. This supervision costs you nothing and we prefer to do this for you.

Insist that all lumber for flooring and panelling for interior work bears the "Three Pines" Trade Mark, and the letters "KD" signifying kiln-dried, thus ensuring its perfect quality, and suitability for the severe climatic conditions of China.

FRANCE READY TO CONSIDER RUSSIAN TRADE

Leygues Gives Outline Of His Nation's Foreign Policy In Future

WILL IGNORE SOVIETS

Plan Does Not Include Recognition Of Reds Is Announcement

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, November 25.—The Foreign Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Deputies met yesterday and was addressed by M. Leygues, who made an important statement on French foreign policy.

The German army, the Premier said, had been reduced to 150,000 men, the delivery of material was improving, and deliveries of coal had been carried out: however, the bonus granted to better the condition of the German miners had not reached them.

PROTESTS TO BERLIN

It was urgent that the plebiscite in Upper Silesia should be proceeded with, but there were several difficulties to be solved in connection with it. The plebiscite would take place about January 15.

French influence, proceeded M. Leygues, had been a factor in bringing about the Treaty of Rapallo.

Strong protests had been made to Berlin following speeches made in the Rhineland by the German Chancellor, Herr Fehrenbach, and Dr. von Simons, Minister for Foreign Affairs.

The Government was not losing sight of the desirability of constructing a port at Tangier.

After the defeat of General Wrangel, France had, in fulfillment of her duty, evacuated 125,000 refugees to countries nearest the Crimea.

SOVIETS UNRECOGNISED

The French Government did not recognise the Soviets, but it was disposed to sanction commercial relations between French and Russian merchants and manufacturers. France did not hold the Russian people responsible for the mistakes of their rulers.

France had always counselled moderation and prudence on the part of Poland.

In conclusion, M. Leygues expressed the hope that in connection with the Greek question the Allies would demonstrate their solidarity.

Paris, November 25.—The Premier, M. Leygues, left Paris for London this morning. He was accompanied by M. Berthelot, Secretary-General for Foreign Affairs.

Paris, November 25.—In the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the Senate, a debate, in which M. Poincare and M. Ribot were the chief speakers, took place on the question of the action to be taken in Syria and Cilicia.

Theft Of Jewels Valued At $6,000; Suspect Remanded

During the ceremonies attendent upon a Chinese wedding which was celebrated recently in a Honan Road home the bridal chamber was entered and a box of pearl ornaments valued at $6,000 was stolen.

The first clew in the case was furnished by a Chinese Police Constable who was on duty at the outer door. He had seen a woman dressed in a long dark gown and wearing a cap leave the place. As she smiled at him he took the liberty of passing the time of day with her and inquired if it was very beautiful within. She assured him that this was even so and passed on. An amah in the household also remembered seeing a person of this description who had requested the servant to open the door to the drying stage. An investigation of this part of the establishment revealed the box in which the pearls had rested.

The police then found that a woman resident in the neighborhood was missing and search for her was begun. She was subsequently brought to Detective Sub-Inspector Prince's office by a Chinese lawyer and yesterday appeared in the Mixed Court charged with the theft.

She states that she did not commit the theft but that she knows the woman who did and that the latter borrowed her gown on the date in question. She also declared that the matter had already been settled out of court. The case was remanded to permit communication with the father of the bride, who is in Peking, to determine whether this latter statement is true.

A few days ago a Chinese girl, who had been kidnaped a year ago, ran away from the brothel into which she had been sold and fled to her brother. The keeper of the brothel and a number of others, thereupon, took the brother, strung him up by the hands and beat him with sticks in an effort to make him disclose the girl's whereabouts. Four of the gang were haled into the Mixed Court and received sentences yesterday—one of six months, one of four months and two of one month each. The second of the accused was a woman.

One year's imprisonment and expulsion from the Settlement thereafter was the punishment decreed by the Mixed Court yesterday in the case of a Chinese caught attempting to break into a shop on Peking Road. After this arrest he admitted the commission of four burglaries and much of his loot was subsequently recovered by the police.

An attempt to poison the eight Anfuite outlaws in the Japanese legation was made Wednesday according to news given out by the Japanese Legation. The Chinese press says the refugees ordered some Chinese food from the restaurant outside but all the dishes were found to contain arsenic. The restaurant keeper, it is said, had admitted that he was ordered to do so by certain political leaders.

Pivotal Contest Between Nanyang And St. John's On Former's Grounds—St. Xaviers Opposes "Recs"—B.A.T. Has Strong Line-Up Against Customs

By "Whistle"

A splendid series of soccer football matches are are on the tapis today on local grounds. The weather being fine—and the prophets are in our favor—some excellent contests should be staged.

The match which attracts the most attention is the first of three embroglios scheduled between St. John's University and Nanyang University, scheduled to be played this afternoon on the Nanyang College grounds, commencing at 2:30 o'clock.

This tangle, being the first of three which are believed to be the games which will settle the question of the E.C.I.A.A. supremacy of 1920, will bring forth an immense crowd, everybody being interested in this initial clash of Chinese teams.

During the past six years Nanyang College have won the championship four times, St. John's once and Soochow University once.

The following will represent St. John's:

Tyau Chung-hwe, Zi Dung-hwe, Tsang Foh-sing, Moo Tuh-tai, Yang Kyung-tshien, Ling Zien-hwe, Mung Chung-tsung, Nyien Zeu-khaung, Daung Ung-ling, Zung Khaung-eu, Zung Tsoong-yen, Ho Kya-lieu (Subst.), Zung Ping-tsang (Subst.), Yui Ts-tsoong (Subst.), Tsung Lien-tshien (Subst.), Tai Kwen-tsang (Subst.), Tsung Yah-loo (Subst).

Mr. A. R. C. Fulton will referee the contest. Messrs. W. G. R. Murphy and A. Underwood will be the linesmen.

The "Recs" will tangle with St. Xavier's on the Police Grounds in a contest which promises to be full of excitement. The "Recs" will line up as follows:

J. Canda; L. P. Quincey and B. H. Smith; S. Emamooden, E. F. Mears and F. C. H. Ollerdessen; A. V. White, C. Sofoulis, A. Sofoulis, C. J. Smith and W. T. Manley (Capt.),

The St. Xavier line-up is as follows:

W. Garry; P. Oliveiros (Capt.) and E. Schnedier; F. Wittsack, H. Johnson and W. Favacho; F. Gutierrez, G. Silva, J. Silva, H. Favacho and F. Reed.

RECS II V. POLICE II

This contest is likely to develop into a good game. The Recs second will line up as follows:

G. Green; J. McLachlan and J. Xavier; G. E. Marshall, J. Mahon and W. W. H. Ferris; G. Johannson T. Emamooden.

St. Xavier's second will try conclusions with the Rangers at Hongkew Park commencing at 2:45 p.m. The Rangers lining up as follows:

N. Jacobs; G. Day and Staley; J. Henry, Tatam and A. Johnson; H. Nash, J. Johnston, E. Nash (Capt.), Evans and Smith. Linesman A. Jacobs.

St. Xavier's second will present the following line-up against this combination:

L. Leitao: J. Tordy (Capt.), and L. Horenstein, P. Petterson, C. McKenzie and V. Silva, H. Colaco, J. Macdonald, C. Passos, T. Aldeguer and J. Lima. Reserves: V. Britto, A. Sequeira.

The Customs team will present a strong line-up against the B. A. T. in their match at the Widow's Monument Ground, as follows:

Steventon, O. Barnes and Davis; Borras Stevens and Coxall; Dallow, Lovelock, A. Barnes, Odgen and Stacey.

At the "Y" ground, east of the Rifle Range, the Rangers second seven will tangle with H. M. S. Foxglove, commencing at 2:45 p.m. The Rangers second will line up as follows:

Ratcliff; Youngson and Morcher; F. Henry, Wilson and Guiston; Taylor (Capt.), H. Donald Broomhall, Rogers and Atkinson.

At the Polo Ground on the Race Course, the Marine Engineers will hook up with the Internationals in what promises to be a hair-raising contest. The engineers will line up as follows:

G. F. Powers (Capt.), J. E Garnt and J. Skelton; H. Adam, J. Soppitt and McDoughill; Huggert, J. T. Robinson, K. Avory, D. Duguid and A. Russell.

Reserves: R. Dorrance and J. Watson.

TIENTSIN PAPER HUNTERS ENJOY OPENING CANTER

Twenty-five Riders Take Jumps And Flats In Glorious Weather

The opening ride of the Tientsin Paper Hunt Club took place on Sunday last in glorious weather. Meeting at the Russian Park, the hunt carefully skirted the golf links, crossed the railway, and made towards the French Arsenal, keeping on the west side of the road.

Going was extremely good until the riders were held up by the stream which runs through the French Arsenal. This could not be forded, and some very clever circus riding was done along a narrow path with a wall on one side and a drop of three feet into the stream on the other side.

This was negotiated safely by all, and the hunt was led south of the Arsenal and so on to a glorious gallop across the plain.

On the return, this time east of the Arsenal road, some very good jumping country was found, and Nimrods and ponies were seen flying in all directions, taking jumps together and separately, judging the time, and by numbers.

There were three ladies out, and the meet was also graced with the presence of three horses which appeared to stand about twenty hands each, when viewed beside their China brethren.

The field was about twenty-five, including many new members. The official opening hunt takes place tomorrow, when Mr. Commons (well-known in Shanghai) has promised to lay a course.

DEMPSEY EASY FOR CARPENTIER, SAY U.S. FRENCH

Dispute Regarding Champion's Right To Title; Expert Explains Situation

BY CHARLES F. MATHISON

If any proof were needed that the boxing enthusiasts of America wish to see Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier in the ring, it is furnished by the attitude of French residents of the United States on the subject. Not only are they eager to see a test of skill between the two pugilists, but they are unanimous in the opinion that Carpentier will win.

They go even further and declare that Dempsey has no valid claim to the world's title and cannot pose as such unless he defeats Carpentier, who is the champion of Europe.

Cyrille Laurin of Montreal, Canada, voices the feelings of Frenchmen in the appended communication:

"I have read that Jack Dempsey claims to be the world's heavyweight champion pugilist. How can he hold that title when he is not the champion of Europe?

EUROPEAN CHAMPION?

"Georges Carpentier is the champion of Europe. Before Dempsey can claim to be the champion of the world he has to defeat Carpentier, who is the champion of Europe. Europe is a part of this world.

"In my opinion Dempsey will never be able to defeat Carpentier. First, Carpentier is very much more agile, therefore faster, very much more scientific, hits harder and has a very much superior brain.

"I have followed pugilism and the greatest fighters these last thirty-five years and I claim to know something about the game.

"Any man that would judge Carpentier by his fight with Levinsky would be very much out of order."

DEMPSEY'S TITLE STATUS

So far as the relative merits of Dempsey and Carpentier are concerned, that problem can be settled only by a meeting in the ring, for the supporters of the French boxer are rock bound in their confidence, and Dempsey's admirers are not to be convinced by the claims of the opposition.

Therefore it is idle to try to settle the question verbally in advance of a ring contest between the fighters.

Regarding the question of Dempsey's championship status, that can be decided by the recorded facts of pugilistic history. In order to make it quite clear that Jack Dempsey is the undisputed heavyweight champion of the world it is necessary to revert to the career of Tommy Burns, who, on the retirement of Jeffries in 1905 claimed the heavyweight championship of America and successfully defended the title.

On July 4, 1907, at Colma, Cal., Burns knocked out Bill Squires, the recognised heavyweight champion of Australia, in the first round.

On December 2, 1907, in the National Sporting Club, London, Burns knocked out Gunner Moir, the heavyweight champion of England, in the tenth round.

BEFORE GEORGE'S TIME

Carpentier at this time was starting his pugilistic career as a bantam and France had no heavyweight champion.

In any event, Burns by winning the heavyweight title of America and stopping the heavyweight champions of Great Britain and Australia made himself the heavyweight champion of the world.

Burns retained the title till December 26, 1908, when he lost to Jack Johnson at Sydney, Australia, in the fourteenth round.

Johnson retained the title till April 5, 1915, when he lost to Jess Willard in twenty-six rounds at Havana.

Willard clung to the honors till July 4, 1919, when he was knocked out by Dempsey in the third round.

AMERICA HOLDS IT

From the time that Burns won the world's title in 1907 the honors have remained continuously in America, for there has not been a bout between the holders of the world's championship and a foreign champion. Certainly Carpentier never has boxed an American title-holder.

In recent years Carpentier has made himself the heavyweight champion of Europe by defeating Bombardier Wells and Joe Beckett. But Jack Dempsey is the undisputed champion of the world and will retain the title until such time as he is defeated or retires from the ring.

If Carpentier defeats Dempsey the Frenchman becomes the heavyweight champion of the world, but this will not affect Dempsey's title as American champion.

By the same token, if Dempsey were to defeat Carpentier the Frenchman would still remain the champion of France and of Europe.

Too Alluring To Be True

BY JAMES J. MONTAGUE

(In New York World)

I need a suit; I need another kelly,
And therefore it is good to call to mind
These well remembered words of Mr. Shelley:
"If winter comes, can spring be far behind?"
For when dissolved and gone the snow and ice is,
When in the trees the robins sing once more,
The clothing men aver that present prices
Will flop to where they were before the war.

A man like me, who's no financial wizard,
Nor yet a coupon-clipping money king,
Can buy a coat to keep away the blizzard
For maybe twenty dollars—in the spring.
Already I've a fondly pleasing vision
Of strutting in a suit of clothes again
That doesn't rouse the passerby's derision,
For I can buy a snappy model—then.

And for the first time in my recent annals.
I'll scrap my thin and shredded B. V. D.'s
And wrap my room in zephyr-proof red flannels—
About the time the green is on the trees.
I'll wear a hat that isn't worn and battered,
A nice new hat of lovely brown or gray,
And by admiring glances I'll be flattered—
I think I'll get it Decoration Day.

The dawn of hope is always most alluring.
And in a somewhat brutal Northern clime.
A person finds it rather reassuring
To know that spring is due on schedule time.
But as I badly need that suit and kelly,
And often have been much misled by Hope,
I cannot help but fear that Mr. Shelley
Is possible mistaken in his dope!

BRITISH 'PRO' DISCUSSES NEW GOLFING TALENT

Performances Of Havers, Allis, Roberts And Seymour Are Reviewed

BY ABE MITCHELL

P. Allis, who took me to the twenty-third green in the third round of the Mid-Surrey tournament, is a youngster of twenty-three, who served his apprenticeship to the game, before entering professional golf, at the Hallamshire Club. Though style does not count for everything in golf, the man who does not play on certain lines cannot hope to make a success of the game.

This youth has not only a natural aptitude for the game, and is equipped with a calm and calculating temperament, but is thoroughly orthodox in all his methods. His swing is admirably controlled, his wooden clubs being taken back to the horizontal line, and there is a firm, incisive snap in the down swing.

It often happens that the more one knows about golf the more difficult it becomes, but at the present time Allis obviously does not see the pitfalls of which the more experienced player is always conscious.

HAVERS IS DOUBTFUL

On his performances this season, A. G. Havers is entitled to claim the leadership of the rising generation of professional golfers; but he has certain peculiarities of style which raise doubts as to his ultimate pinnacle.

His grip is unusual. The left hand is turned far over, and the knuckles of the right hand are pointing to the ground, in much the same way as my own. Possibly the left hand position counteracts the pulling tendency of the right; but it was significant that, in his match against Tom Williamson, he kept an irregular line.

I do not like, either, the way in which Havers plays his iron shot. The club, at the top of the swing, is put outwards. That is to say, his left wrist is not underneath the club.

Whether these defects, according to accepted theories, will impair Havers' progress, remains to be seen. This season his record suggests that he is a player of great possibilities.

HUGH ROBERTS' STYLE

As a stylist there is no young player of today who surpasses Hugh Roberts, who has taken the place of James Sherlock at Stoke Poges. He has hardly done as well this season as was anticipated. At Mid-Surrey he lost to Alec Herd after having gained a winning position.

Roberts has a full swing that is smooth and easy. Indeed, he plays the game just as the text-books say the game should be played. He has now joined the ranks of Southern players, and I feel sure that he will develop into a first-class player with the experience he will obtain.

Another young player of undoubted merit is Seymour. He is going to have a say in the big events of the future. He hits the ball as far as most of us; and, with the modern ball, this is a big asset. As in the case of Roberts, his style is a model of correctness.

Shanghai Baptists Beaten At Nanking

Nanking, Nov. 25.—The Shanghai (Baptist) College football team, which arrived here yesterday evening, was defeated by the University of Nanking football team this afternoon, at 3:00 by a score of 3-0.

Previous to the match, the Shanghai College Middle School eleven was defeated by a close margin of 2-1 in favor of the University Middle School.

In the two games, each side showed a fine sportsmanship and played very enthusiastically.

MAN-O'-WAR, WONDER HORSE, RUNS FAST BECAUSE OF HIS "COLLECTION," SAYS EXPERT

Sam Riddle's $500,000 Nag Stretches 28 Feet In Stride And Forgets He Has A Jockey On Board—Actions Analysed By An Expert

BY BARRETTO DE SOUZA

(New York Herald)

It has been generally believed by racing men that, in order to develop the greatest possible speed, a horse has to gallop extended and low to the ground; in other words, what "high school" riders call "uncollected."

In his racing, and especially on the occasion of his last wonderful feat, the mighty Man o' War has disproved that idea, to the undisguised astonishment of the wiseacres. A photograph made in his race against Sir Barton shows the incomparable three-year-old making a phenomenal bound above the ground, at the apex of one of his great strides, the average length of which was said to be over 25 feet, while the maximum strides reached 28 feet!

In this picture, the horse's four feet being exceedingly close together, there is no denying that he has a very high degree of natural collection. And it would be impossible for him, or any other horse, to make a 25 foot leap—let alone a succession of such leaps continued for a mile and a quarter—without being very highly collected, whether naturally or artificially.

HIS "COLLECTION"

Another proof of his being collected is the height at which his head is carried, the lowest part of his chin being barely below a perpendicular drawn from his withers forward.

The fact that his reins are loose while in this posture proves also that he is not weighing on his rider's hands and that he is, consequently, although running at such excessive speed, as light of mouth as a well trained high school horse in complete collection.

Of course if he had been trained in high school and his natural collection had consequently been improved by art, it would have included the Neck, which then might have been carried less straight.

If his legs from below the knees and hocks are hidden by covering that part of the picture I refer to and only the parts of his body and legs above that are shown, Man o' War will appear to be performing the high school "air" called "Piaffer," instead of a racing gallop.

THE BIG DIFFERENCE

By contrasting Sir Barton's attitude as he vainly chases Man o' War, we see that, going low to the ground in approved racing style, this horse could not possibly execute the tremendous leaps which gave such an easy victory to his rival; who, moreover, apparently went about his business very calmly, judging by his absolutely peaceful facial expression in the photograph.

That Sir Barton does not "collect" as well nor to such a degree as Man o' War is proved by the comparative lack of impetus of his off hind leg and by the low carriage of his head, his chin being far below the line of his withers. In fact, a horizontal line drawn from his withers forward would pass just below his eyes.

Comparing, then, the manner of going of these two horses we understand why Man o' War could so easily win, and we then see that the faculty a horse has of collecting helps him develop speed, and develop it without undue effort, consequently with but a minimum of fatigue.

UPSETS PRECEDENT

From this picture we thus also learn that, contrary to the old school idea, the highest degree of collection can be obtained—in this case quite naturally—even at top speed, and that the proper sort of collection, not the one obtained by the ancient method of "pulling together," practically the "movement backward," but the collection arrived at by the modern method of "sending the horse up to his bit," that is by the "movement forward," increases a horse's strides and does not diminish them. This recalls also what Fillis says in his "Breaking and Riding," that he developed the racing speed of thoroughbreds which he had trained in high school.

Moreover, this picture confirms the definition I have offered of the "collection" as being "the centralisation of the horse's forces under his rider," that is, between center of gravity and the center of propulsion, which Man o' War clearly shows, as he seems hung to space by the top of his girth line.

Those who have had the good fortune of seeing the great St. Simon run will remember that he, too, had a mighty stride, and a high gallop, and worked with a great degree of natural collection, unusual among racing thoroughbreds.

TOKIO POPULATION UNDER ESTIMATE

Census Gives Only 2,147,190 Persons, With A Total Of 455,264 Families

SEVENTH IN THE WORLD

Figures Show Increase In Rural Population, Indicating Trend Away From Cities

Tokio's population is 2,147,190 according to the result obtained by the Census Bureau after the recent census taking. The number of families is 455,264. The foregoing figures were given out by the bureau and reported in Japanese papers.

The Hochi says in connection with these figures that the population had been estimated roughly between two to three millions, and Tokio had been placed in popular estimate at the fourth city in the world in point of population, preceded only by New York, London and Paris.

This claim was based upon the inaccurate census taken by the city's registry offices and the police. Compared with the figures given by the city at the end of last year, population, 2,359,635; number of families, 612,635; there is a wide discrepancy in the new census of 212,444 in population and 167,300 in the number of families. The estimate of the Police Department at the end of last year was far too small, as it put the population at 1,918,000.

TOKIO IS SEVENTH

Both Greater London and Greate New York claim the largest population of any city in the world, each having more than seven million inhabitants. Next in order comes Paris.

According to the census figures just announced, Tokio ranks as the seventh city in the world in point of population, basing a comparison on the latest available figures, some of which go as far back as 1911. Besides New York, London and Paris, Tokio is exceeded in this respect by Chicago, Petrograd and Vienna. Berlin, Moscow and Philadelphia, in the order named, rank just below Tokio.

As for the entire Tokio-fu, aside from Tokio, Hachioji City is given 38,800, which is 4,200 smaller than the prefecture's estimate at the end of last year, which had it at 43,000. In eight counties in the prefecture, 1,420,000 people were found, which is larger than the estimate of the Prefectural Government last year, 1,349,000, that is a difference of 71,000. The increase of the rural population is taken by the Hochi to mean that the people more and more are prefering to live outside the city limits of Tokio.

OSAKA FALLS OFF

No return was received as yet from the seven islands of the Pacific near the peninsula of Idzu and the Bonin Island. The estimate last year was 383,000 in those islands. The total population of Tokio Prefecture is estimated to be 3,650,000 in round figures, which is 153,000 short of last year's estimate by the Prefectural Government.

These figures do not include the members of the Imperial Family, their relatives or men aboard naval vessels, but they include 10,000 or more persons living on waters within the jurisdiction of Tokio-fu.

Osaka and environs show a population of 2,579,361 persons and 597,119 houses, a decrease of 298,000 of the estimated number of persons, but an increase of 4,068 in regard to the houses. Osaka proper shows a population of 1,248,056 persons and 276,300 houses.

German Said To Make Perfect Diamonds

BY GEORGE RENWICK

Berlin, October 15.—It has taken a German chemist to discover the secret of the diamond. Some time ago there were rumors that an important German firm had not only acquired a patent for the production of these precious stones, but had actually manufactured diamonds in such quantities as to warrant the conviction that yet another of Nature's mysteries has been definitely unveiled.

It is now known that the firm in question is the dynamite company, formerly Alfred Nobel of Hamburg.

No details are available as to the nature of the process, though it is believed to differ very considerably from those hitherto tried. I am assured that not only have many diamonds of good size already been procured by it but also that the cost of production is such that it will be possible to make them very profitable. In quality, too, the artificial stones are said to be equal to any which come from the mines. Indeed I believe experts have declared the quality of some to be even better than the average natural stone.

The cost of production of course is considerable but is still very much lower than the ruling market price.

In the diamond market, which is naturally highly interested and not little alarmed at the news, it is stated today that it is believed the price will be as much as 40 percent lower.

There has been and is a great business done in diamonds in Germany and many merchants have large stocks on hand and they fear a rush to sell may be caused by the prospect of lower prices in other quarters. However, such a fall is not expected as it is thought that the prices of the artificial stones when they come on the market will be put at a figure only "just low enough to break the British monopoly" as one merchant said today.

The company referred to have not yet sold any diamonds and is producing only at the rate of a few hundred carats daily. Only a few privileged experts have been permitted so far to see the manufactured stones. It is hoped there will soon be a weekly production of between 20,000 and 30,000 carats.

German Socialists In Savage Broils

Soviet And Anti-Soviet Partisans Of Independent Party Crack Skulls

Berlin, October 2.—"The battle for Moscow" is still raging among the members of the Independent Socialist Party, and is conducted with a brutality and [illegible] that beggars all description. It is a most extraordinary and not unpleasing spectacle to all the other German political parties watching this fight of Reds against Moscow.

The Independent Socialist leaders who in November, 1918, and January and March, 1919, would not have hesitated to lead their followers to loot and burn the palaces of the Junkers and millionaires are now fighting nightly battles in their respective districts for possession of the party chest, which may contain such trifling sums as from 2,000 to 3,000 marks. It is, perhaps, not so much for the money as for "principle" that so many noses are bleeding and so many heads are cracked after every district meeting of Independent Socialists in Berlin streets, which then resound with the war cry "for Moscow against Noske," or, as the case may be, "Rather Noske than Moscow," which proves that the ex-War Minister's hard punches are still not forgotten by the Reds.

But the fight for Moscow is assuming a true anarchist character when such good old Reds as Ledebour, Hilferding, Dittmann Kautsky, leaders against Moscow, receive letters from a secret Bolshevist court condemning them to shooting unless they immediately cease their agitation against Moscow. These letters were traced to writers who sent the chief conspirator to the editorial rooms of The Freiheit to justify the secret court's sentence. He cold bloodedly repeated the threat against the leaders named in their presence and left no doubt that he and his companions were serious.

Ledebour and his friends were compelled against the overwhelming majority of their partisans to favor Moscow and the immediate establishment of a proletarian dictatorship, and the Independent Socialist organ Freiheit is losing thousands of subscribers to the Communist Rote Fahne.

While deadly hatreds are thus raging against each other in the ranks of the Socialist parties from Daumig to Scheidemann, they certainly presented a unanimous front in the battle for the Berlin Municipal Government, and today all the Socialist organs, Vorwaerts, Freiheit and Rote Fahne, contain flaming articles for the immediate initiation of a campaign for possession of the Prussian State Government.

WILSON IS INVITED TO BE MEDIATOR

this resolution to the Governments of all States, members of the League, and the Government of the United States. The object is to find a Power which will use its good offices to put an end as speedily as possible to the present horrible tragedy.

"The proposal does not involve any renewal of the invitation to accept a mandate for Armenia. The Council would never have thought of asking the United States to assume obligations which might be unwelcome.

"But the United States will understand that the Council was bound to offer the United States an opportunity to undertake a task of such great humanitarian importance, seeing that the fate of the Armenian people has always been an object of special interest to the American people and that the President of the United States has already accepted the mission of fixing the Armenian frontiers.

"As it is a matter of extreme urgency to find a solution the Council ventures to ask for a reply as soon as possible.

"(Signed): HYMANS,
Chairman of the Council of the League of Nations."

The Council afterwards heard Colonel Requin, member of the Naval, Military and Air Commission, on the subject of the transport and supply of the international force sent by the League of Nations to Vilna.

DISCUSS DISARMAMENT

Geneva, November 24.—The Armaments Commission of the League of Nations today discussed the question of disarmament.

M. Leon Bourgeois (France) declared that the League could not urge a general reduction of Armaments until certain conditions had been fulfilled, especially the disarmament of the Central Powers. M. Usteri (Switzerland) and Signor Schanzer (Italy) urged that the problem of disarmament should be solved without delay.

Mr. H. A. L. Fisher (Great Britain) pointed out that the instability of the political situation in Europe had prevented the Military Commission from reaching any definite conclusions, but expressed the opinion that there was every reason for optimism. He proposed that the Armaments Commission should provisionally limit its discussions to prohibition of the private manufacture of armaments, study of the armament question, and the question of trade in arms. The discussion was adjourned to November 25.

Health, Beauty And The Home

Irregular Meals

By Mrs. Christine Frederick,
The Distinguished Authority on Household Efficiency.

In a discussion of the topic, "what is your most difficult housekeeping problem?" at our Mothers' Club the other afternoon, several of the members brought up the problem of the family which cannot all take its meals at the same time. Sometimes the children must have a noon lunch earlier than the adults who may come home for that meal; again, in these days of several factory and store shifts of work it is often necessary to serve the main evening meal quite late at night to some of the family. In many homes it is quite a problem for the housekeeper to be able to serve successive groups well and without too much fatigue on her own part. How shall she do it?

The first point is to study one's own cooking facilities and know over how long a period meals must be served. If a range is used the back of the stove or the oven offers a better-warming surface than the usual gas or oil cookstove. But even if pots are set on the back of the range the food contents will dry out after a short interval. If a gas range is used there is no way to keep foods hot and moist and well flavored. In either case the housekeeper should study the theory of keeping foods over hot water—in other words, the double-boiler method.

Every housekeeper knows that foods which would stick or curdle or dry when cooked in an ordinary utensil over a direct flame will not do these things when placed in a pot over hot water. But this idea has a far wider application, and it is just the plan to follow in keeping foods hot over a long period. It is possible to use several double-boilers to keep hot the various foods, such as stew, soup, custards, vegetables, etc. After some of the family is served turn the burners on stove very low and allow foods to thus stay warm over water.

One housekeeper had a special pan made for the four burners of her stove. It was a four-sided pan, about two inches deep, made of galvanized iron. It had a closely fitting cover in which holes were made to accommodate the various sized boilers which she used—a two-quart size, a one-quart and a large four-quart boiler. This pan fitted over the burners of her stove, but it needed only one burner heated to keep the water sufficiently warm. No matter how late her family or how delayed the serving of the meal, this water-bath solved her problem. She did not know that the French have a utensil like this called a "bain-marie," and a similar device is much used here in restaurants, cafeterias and other places where meals must be served over a long period.

Another way is to use the water method in any oven. That is, prepare the food in the regular way, then place this pan and its contents over or in a second utensil having water. If the oven of a gas stove, for example, has a baking pan of water in it, and on this pan the platter, or other dish holding food is set, the food will not become dried out or lose its flavor. Always keep the pilot or small burner very low.

On oil stoves or stoves of this type which have no warming shelf or only an inadequate one, use a small portable "Dutch" oven for warming as well as cooking. The smallest of these which fit over one burner cost about $2 and are worth that for their great convenience. Place pans of water in this oven, lay the foods over the pans, turn the burner low and the foods will keep hot for a long period and retain their moisture.

Where electricity is not too costly the problem may be solved by using the oblong disc stoves, having three degrees of heat. By using glass casseroles or other heat resisting utensils, and keeping the heat of the disc on "low," just enough heat will be furnished to keep the food warm, but not to cook it. An asbestos pad may be laid between the stove and the container and a heavy platter cover laid over the whole stove and its contents as it stands at the table, so that no matter when the person arrives, the food will be in fine condition.

In most cases it is a good plan to arrange a complete service of the various foods on the one plate from which they are to be eaten. The platter-plates are ideal for this purpose, since they have compartments for separate foods. But in any case, when the meal must be held for some one after the others are finished it is better to dish his portion when the foods are fresh. This is especially true of mashed potatoes and other foods which are never so good as at the first heating. As the main meal is served, arrange the plate for the latecomer, and place it where it will stay warm, then no matter how little remains from the regular meal, the late-comer's plate will be ample and warm.

For beverages there is a wide selection of the various vacuum jars and jugs now found in such perfected form. Coffee, cocoa, tea, etc., may be made earlier than the meal and then opened as needed. These containers are excellent for holding the soup or cocoa to be kept hot for the mid-afternoon lunch of the school child. In this way the child is assured a hot beverage at any moment, without any trouble of preparing or lighting a fire. The mother herself may use such vacuum containers to have in readiness on her return from shopping, etc. The chief value of such containers is that they admit of their contents being prepared when the regular meal routine is being carried on, so that there is no additional trouble or time wasted later, and one may have an "instant meal" when desired.

Fads Well Worth While

By Lina Cavalieri,
The Most Famous Living Beauty.

THE wise woman is beginning to realize that many of the so-called beauty fads are really useful in the development of her natural inheritance. She no longer pays any attention to the long-faced moralist who tells her that her features, her form and her complexion should remain as nature planned them. She knows that nature makes many mistakes, and it is the sensible woman who insists upon trying to correct them instead of sitting down and bemoaning her fate.

It used to be, first the fancy, then the fad, then the fitting. This is the history of most announced discoveries of the means to heighten beauty. They have their little hour of discipleship; their impulsive following and their period of vanishing. Yet, beneath nearly all the beauty fads there is a more or less well-applied principle of science.

For instance, there is the rubber chin-band. The band to control the usurping flesh was first of muslin. Then it was improved by the use of elastic. Now it has evolved to its best state—that of strong yet light rubber, made with a throat latch resembling the lower part of a horse's halter. Attached by a clasp on either side are straps that fasten at the top of the head. The original idea of compressing the flesh so that it would form in a smaller and more becoming mold was sound, but the later idea of using rubber appeals still more to common knowledge. The wearing of rubber next to the skin causes perspiration.

Therefore the rubber band will not only hold the flesh of the pendulous chin in place, but by causing free perspiration will gradually reduce its size. The rubber band, worn at night and frequently during the day for half an hour or more at a time, is the best cure for the double chin that we have yet been able to discover.

Ice, of course, is another excellent aid in the removal of a double chin. It has come to be quite generally used now after a massage of the face and neck to harden the muscles. Lots of woman use the ice to drive away wrinkles. This has a scientific foundation for its use, as you can readily see, for while the first application will drive the blood from the surface, it causes the blood also to rebound, thus bringing a fine, healthy flush to the skin and rebuilding the neglected and shrunken tissues. Remember that whatever renews tissues eradicates wrinkles. That is why a good cold cream is of such great value in feeding the skin during the time of rejuvenation.

The nose clamp is another new and amusing device adopted by would-be beauties to prevent the spreading of the nostrils and to give the nose, that would otherwise be too round and coarse, a more delicate tip.

I have called on my friends in the morning and been received in their bedrooms. They looked very charming in their nightrobes of dainty batiste, embroidered and ornamented with pink and blue bows of ribbon. Their hair would be carefully arranged or else tied in two loose braids for comfort. Their complexion looked fresh and cool from their bath of cold cream, but I shrieked with laughter at them because they wore nose clamps. One who disliked the touch of the cold metal substituted the homely domestic article, the clothespin.

Both the clamp and the clothespin may be protected from touching the skin directly by a lining of white silk or velvet. Absurd as these things look, I was assured by all who wore them that their purpose was admirably served.

The aged hand, too, has been a source of much mortification and anxiety to the woman who has left her thirties and her forties behind her. Yet electricity, that prime aid in the rejuvenation of beauty, has come to her assistance, and now the woman who has a good many years to her credit, but who does not care to admit that balance, goes to the beauty parlors, settles back comfortably in a reclining chair and renews the youth of her hands by electrical treatment. The operator traces over the hand again and again, round and round, focussing most on the base of the back near the wrist, a small electrical machine attached to a light battery. You can even, by purchasing one of these devices yourself, do the work in your own home.

When first applied the skin of the hands begins to tingle. The blood rushes in a flood to the surface. After a few days of this treatment one notices that the ugly furrows, trenches dug by the cruel spade of time, are being filled up. After a little longer time they are entirely filled, and the surface presents a smooth, even appearance.

Sinn Fein Dynamiters Plot Against Liverpool And Manchester, Report

received today of further outrages and casualties in Ireland.

OUTRAGE AT CORK

Three men were killed and 14 wounded in a bomb affair at Cork, which remains shrouded in mystery. It appears that the bomb exploded in a street which was crowded with theater-goers returning home. There were no police or military in the vicinity, and the police are of opinion that a home-made bomb was being examined by a number of men when it was accidentally dropped.

Three fatal shooting affairs are reported. In one case, in County Mayo, the victim was the son of a postmaster. The second was a young man at Ballylongford, County Kerry, and the third a farmer's son, who was killed in North Kerry.

CARS AMBUSHED

Two motor-cars, containing police and witnesses who had been attending a court-martial, were ambushed in South Tyrone by Sinn Feiners. A terrific fusillade was maintained between the two parties, and five persons were severely wounded.

Medical evidence confirms the fact that there was no case of bayonetting at Croke Park on Sunday.

The Army Pensions offices (? in Dublin) were raided today by armed men, and £1,000 stolen.

Dublin was today the scene of a series of big raids by the forces of the Crown. The principal of these was made at Liberty Hall, the Dublin headquarters of the Transport and General Workers' Union, with a membership of 20,000. Here the secretary of the Labor Party, named Johnson Farry, who was last year's president, and others, were arrested. A large quantity of documents, books and papers were seized and burned in a huge bonfire in the street. A quantity of military equipment was also found on the premises.

Later, the offices of the Irish House-painters and Allied Trades Union were raided, and the secretary arrested. Further raids were made upon the Builders' and Carpenters' Society and the Catholic Benefit Society. Numbers of arrests were effected.

CONDEMNS REPRISALS

London, Nov. 24.—In the House of Commons today, Mr. Asquith opened a debate on the present situation in Ireland, by introducing a motion condemning the outrages in that country, and also "the action of the Executive in attempting to repress crime by methods of terrorism and reprisals," and urging immediate steps to bring about pacification.

In the course of his speech, the ex-Premier denounced the Dublin assassinations, but declared that such crimes made it all the more necessary that the Executive should be able to encounter them with clean hands. He asserted that evidence was accumulating to show that the forces of the Crown in various parts of Irelanc had been raiding and destroying indiscriminately

These were not the isolated acts of individuals. The evidence of the organisation of an overwhelming policy of reprisals had alienated the moderate element among the Nationalists and was driving men to despair.

There was, he contended, only one way of escape, and the first step was for the Government to drop the policy of reprisals.

GREENWOOD REPLIES

Sir Hamar Greenwood (Chief Secretary for Ireland) in his reply, emphasised that the cessation of the provocation to which the armed forces in Ireland were subjected would mean that Ireland would automatically become peaceful.

He declared that the majority of the Irish people were on the best of terms with the soldiers and police.

They wanted peace, and they were getting peace, because the forces of the Crown were breaking down the terror.

But as for the minority of extremists who murdered and burned and stole uniforms, and inspired questions in the House of Commons—a phrase which aroused an uproar—there was no solution except to seize and punish them.

Sir Hamar went on to say that the Goverrment had certain knowledge that some American newspaper correspondents had enjoyed the hospitality of the murder gang in Ireland, and had sent their newspapers matter to hurt Anglo-American friendship, and to do their best to damage the British Empire; but the last American election showed that they had failed to make the Irish question an issue.

PROPERTY DESTROYED

The Chief Secretary then dealt with the attacks on creameries. There were, he said, 710 of these concerns, of which 41 were alleged to have been damaged or destroyed, and others more or less slightly damaged. He denied that they had been destroyed systematically. The fact was that these places were sometimes used as rendezvous by the Irish Republican Army, and in some cases their destruction was justified.

As an illustration of the strict discipline in force, he pointed out that not a single pane of glass had been broken in Dublin after the murder of 14 officers. He affirmed that there was no "policy of reprisal," and that numbers of soldiers and police who had been found guilty of looting and other offences had been punished.

Sir Hamar Greenwood criticised Mr. Asquith for not yet having done anything to assist the soldiers and police in their difficult task. He mentioned that under Mr. Asquith's administration the Royal Irish Constabulary were disheartened and underpaid, whereas he, the Chief Secretary, had succeeded in restoring the morale of the force.

OFFER BLOOD MONEY

He declared that the headquarters of the Irish Republican army had offered in some cases £100 per skull for the deaths of police and military, while £3,500 had been spent, mostly at Glasgow, for buying arms.

He further read documents showing that disorganisation was setting in among the Volunteer Army as the result of the present Government policy, and indicating that the assassins were becoming sick of murder, which they knew to be failing in effect.

In conclusion, the Chief Secretary declared that there was no civilised country that had such a record as that of the British Empire in dealing with crime. As showing that the Government was succeeding he affirmed that the Sinn Fein forces had disappeared, except in backrooms, where they met for propaganda purposes; the boycott had broken down; the hunger-striking was finished, and intimidation was going. There was only one issue left—"Who is for Ireland and the Empire, and who is for assassination?"

ASQUITH URGES PEACE

New York, Nov. 24.—A London despatch to the Associated Press states that the Irish debate in the House of Commons opened when the Opposition Leader, Mr. Asquith, moved a resolution expressing abhorrence of the recent assassinations and condemnation of reprisals, and urging that steps be taken to bring about peace in Ireland. The motion is a composite of Independent Liberal and Labor motions.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, replied that the majority of the Irish want peace, and that they are getting it because the Government is breaking the terror.

He said that some American newspaper correspondents had been enjoying the hospitality of the murder gangs, and had been sending news to America to hurt the Anglo-American friendship and damage the British Empire. He stated that the forces of the Crown were daily becoming more effective.

VISCOUNT GREY SPEAKS

London, November 24.—In the debate in the House of Lords today on the Home Rule Bill, Viscount Grey contributed a speech which followed the lines of his recent letter to the Westminster Gazette, advocating a modified form of Dominion self-government for Ireland. He emphasised, however, that there must be only foreign policy for the United Kingdom, and that must be in the hands of the Imperial Government, and there must also be but one army and one navy, for, whatever Dominion Home Rule meant thousands of miles away from England, Ireland was so close that her safety absolutely depended on there being an undivided authority.

In this connection he withdrew the suggestion he made in the above-mentioned letter, that the troops should be withdrawn from Ireland after two years. He admitted that no Government could say with certainty that it would do a certain thing at a specified date. He admitted that the Liberals were intolerably indignant at the recent murders, but also astonished and anxious about the reports of the Crown forces getting out of hand.

ALTERATIONS SUGGESTED

His lordship, continuing, asked whether there was not yet time for the Government to make a couple of alterations in the bill which might make the whole difference in its reception in Ireland. He suggested that the bill fell short of what should be enacted as regards finance. He urged that Britain should say frankly: "We will take nothing from Ireland except what is given voluntarily," and that, instead of saying that if peace was offered the Government would give fiscal autonomy, the Government should go further and say they would give it in the hope that it would produce peace.

Lord Grey concluded by instancing the similar peril which arose in South Africa, and was averted by the grant of self-government, which was given only in the nick of time.

New Trial Is Denied For Convicted Sailor

Motion for a new trial was denied yesterday in the case of Jack Welch, American seaman, who was recently sentenced to serve two years at Bilibid and pay a fine of $500 after being convicted on a charge of involuntary manslaughter. Welsh was held responsible for the accidental killing of a Chinese girl in a brothel on Fearon Road when a revolver he pointed at her went off.

Captain Fleming To Go Back On Ecuador

Captain Fleming of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company liner Ecuador, who has been recovering from an operation at Dr. Fearn's Sanitorium, will probably resume command of the Ecuador when she sails from Shanghai to San Francisco December 4.

Captain Fleming was in command of the liner enroute to the Orient but was taken ill upon arrival in Shanghai and was forced to undergo an operation.

The Ecuador will arrive in Shanghai December 1. Captain Fleming has left Dr. Fearn's and under the care of a nurse, is convalescent at the home of Mr. H. S. Honigsberg.

'The Belle Of New York'

A crowded house last night greeted the seventh performance of "The Belle of New York" at the Lyceum Theater when the Amateur Dramatic Club again presented the popular American musical comedy. The performance went off with a snap and vigor that characterised the previous interpretations.

Mrs. O'Hara, Mrs. Isenman, Mrs. Wingrove, Mrs. Spunt Mr. Glemby and Mr. Silas again scored heavily with the large audience while the rest of the cast was up to the high standard set by previous performances.

Tonight Shanghai will see "The Belle of New York" for the last time and a capacity audience will attend the farewell performance, all seats having been sold for several days.

JAIL DEN PROPRIETORS

Two women and a man convicted of keeping establishments for the smoking of opium were sentenced to one month's imprisonment each by the Mixed Court yesterday. Ten patrons of the places were ordered to pay fines of $3 each or serve three days in jail. The houses raided are at 63 Loong Zien, 715 Fokien Road and 295 Shantung Road.

The two men arrested by a search party on Broadway Wednesday evening for being in possession of five tins of opium were fined $10 each yesterday.

EARLY MORNING FIRE

An early morning fire, discovered at 5:39 o'clock yesterday, damaged the building at 29 Medhurst Road, formerly occupied by the Austrian Consulate-General. The blaze originated in the flat occupied by Dr. R. S. Shively where a cigarette apparently had been left to smoulder. Furniture and wood work were damaged.

"Virgin Of Stamboul"

The stupendous Universal Film Company moving picture, "The Virgin of Stamboul," continues to draw capacity houses to the Apollo Theater and it is expected that large audiences will see the last two showings of the wonderful film play tonight and tomorrow night. The Universal Company spent half a million dollars in producing the picture which features Priscilla Dean. "The Virgin of Stamboul" is one of the Universal Company's latest releases and was brought here only a week ago by the Far Eastern Representative, Mr. Thomas W. Cochrane.

Hongkong Market.

Messrs. Moxon and Taylor write as follows in their report dated November 19:

The aftermath of the Cricket week in Hongkong and the race week in Shanghai have interfered with business even during the week under review, but in spite of these obstacles a certain number of shares have changed hands.

The Rubber market continues depressed.

Hongkong Banks.—Have moved upwards, due no doubt to falling exchange. At the close there are good buyers at $667½ for cash with business at higher rates forward, mostly for Shanghai account.

Canton Insurances.—After sales at $360 have improve to a buying quotation of $365.

Union Insurances.—After dropping to $180 have recovered very rapidly and could now be placed at about $190.

Hongkong Lands.—After sales at $126 are still wanted at that figure.

Hotels.—Have declined to a buying quotation of $153.

Wharves.—Show an improvement, and after sales at $93 could possibly be placed at that figure.

Hongkong Docks.—Are a strong market, buyers prevailing at $153 for cash and $154½ for December.

Deferred Indos.—A certain amount of buying by London has improved the price of London Register shares, which are now wanted at $182. Hongkong Register shares could be placed at $180.

Douglases.—Dropped to $57, but the market has since recovered, and sales are reported at $59, with further buyers at this rate.

Steamboats.—After weakening to $24 have risen to $24½, at which price some shares have changed hands and market is firm.

Hongkong Trams.—Are still wanted at $7½.

Hongkong Electrics. — Have changed hands at $18½, and are just steady at the rate.

Powells. Are in request at $16½.

Shanghai Docks.—Are wanted at Tls. 120.

Exchange.—The demand selling rate on London is 3-9½ and the T.T. selling rate on Shanghai is 73.

Messrs. J. A. Wattie and Co. have received the following telegram from Messrs. Barker and Co., Ltd., London dated 24th inst.

Average Spot price standard quality Ribbed Smoked Sheet 1s. 0½d.

Average Spot price standard quality First Crepe 1s. 1½d.

Market quiet.

Cotton Market

Messrs. J. Spunt and Co., write as follows in their report dated November 27:—

China Cotton.—But very little spot liquidations transpired though offered at more favorable rates than those ruling during the previous period, while a fair volume of business for distant deliveries may be recorded as having been consummated on almost the same level as that offered for spots thus plainly indicating the persistency of the monetarial stringency and its adverse effects in depressing the value on the raw material, and which circumstances have more or less brought about a realisation favorable to bearish expectations. The question now arises to what extent will prices decline it being that the weakness manifested at the time of our last issue has evinced no abatement since. This is a question beyond any one to answer definitely as so much depends on the strength of the demand and various other factors thereanent that may evolve and while the outlook is by no means pessimistic it is difficult to prognosticate at this moment the duration of present conditions nor is it possible to indicate with any degree of accuracy when the pendulum of rates will swing upward. Tone of the market, Weak.

America Operates Diplomacy School

Course Proves So Popular That Full Time Work Is Offered Graduate Students

Full work is being offered this fall for the first time in the School of Diplomacy, Jurisprudence and Citizenship of the American University in Washington, D.C.

The courses, which are confined entirely to graduate students, are designed for those entering the consular field of the United States, and cover history, social sciences, languages, foreign commerce and kindred subjects, a knowledge of which is considered vital to diplomats.

Partial work was offered last spring, when the school was tentatively opened, and proved so popular that the work was continued through the summer and this fall a complete course of study was inaugurated.

Five Dentifrice Features in One

(Newest ideas of all dentifrices combined in Calox

WHITENS TEETH
Forms active peroxide of hydrogen in the mouth
PREVENTS ACID MOUTH
Creates genuine lime-water in the mouth
DESTROYS DECAY-GERMS
Releases pure, refreshing OXYGEN gas
REMOVES TARTAR FILM
Peroxide and lime-water combine to dissolve and wash away tartar
TASTES GOOD
No strong druggy flavor

SOME of us brush our teeth to whiten them; others to prevent decay and still others to refresh the mouth. Many believe they have acid-mouth or wish to remove the "crust of tartar" which is forming.

Regardless of why you brush your teeth, study the chart above and decide whether the dentifrice you are now trying will do or is doing all that you can reasonably expect from a dentifrice.

If it is, continue to use it faithfully. If it is good for only one of the duties of a good dentifrice, you had better try McK & R Calox, which combines in one dentifrice most of the features of all modern dentifrices.

If you haven't heard the story of McK & R Calox—how it forms real lime-water in your mouth to prevent acids—how it creates fresh active peroxide on the teeth every time you brush them—how it releases genuine oxygen gas which penetrates into every crevice and "gasses" the dangerous decay-germs into harmlessness, if you don't know this story of the victory of modern science, send for "The McK & R Calox Story."

Your dentist will recommend McK & R Calox to you and your druggist has it. Try it next time you need a dentifrice.

The taste is a surprise to most people. It is not the least bit "druggy" which proves that it is possible to make a pleasant tasting dentifrice and that a "strong" taste does not prove the efficiency of any paste or powder.

Japan And America

MR. Joseph Timmons the brilliant, and, for all that, painstaking, war correspondent, whose series of articles on the Japanese program in Shantung written for Universal Service, will be remembered by readers of THE CHINA PRESS, has been telling the people of California that Japan will not go to war with the United States over the Alien Land Law. It seems that there were quite a number of Californians who feared that they would involve the United States in war with Japan if they voted for this law. Mr. Timmons' articles evidently went far towards persuading them to the contrary for the proposed law was approved by an overwhelming majority.

Anti-American demonstrations on a large scale were expected to take place in Japan if this law was enacted. The Japanese people were represented as in a state of furious indignation. War talk filled the Japanese press. One general predicted that Japan had nothing to fear from a war with America. "We look care of China and Russia," he said, "and we are prepared to do the same thing to the United States."

But the riots and demonstrations against the United States did not eventuate. In fact nothing happened. And in today's telegrams from Tokio we have a message to the effect that "fourteen social and industrial peace societies, represented by Viscount Shibusawa, Viscount Kaneko, Dr. Anesaki and others are preparing to hold a meeting to discuss the formation of a united movement to obtain a vis-a-vis on Japanese-American questions."

Japan evidently is willing to take any terms she can get short of war. Her commitments in Siberia, China, Korea and Saghalien do not permit her to think of war with America. Mr. Timmons says that war between the United States and Japan has never in recent years been so distant as it is today. Japan, he says, has at least 100,000 soldiers scattered over the northern part of Continental Asia. To quote:

"Japan's problems in this scheme of her militarists are enormous, the task is gigantic. All the world is suspicious of her professed good intentions. The Japanese army, with the co-operation of the civil departments in Tokio, is searching out mines, forests, rich agricultural tracts and fishing grounds in East Siberia and Saghalien Island and auctioning them off to Japanese as fast as possible. To protect Japanese interests and settlers Japan will have to occupy the country permanently. To hold East Siberia against the bitter hatred of the Siberians will tax the resources of Japan.

"Every well informed Japanese, civilian or official, including the Emperor, the Elder Statesmen, the Advisory Council, the General Staff, the Naval Board and the Cabinet—that is to say, the rulers of Japan—know that defeat for Japan in a war with America would be inevitable.

"Japan has very little of iron and coal. She could not develop enough in China or Siberia to supply the demands of war. She could not get them from Europe. The riches she got out of the war trade are in money, and in the process she depleted her raw materials.

"Immediately upon inception of war, Japan would lose all her foreign trade. America is her best customer by far. Her merchant class and the silk growers certainly will not want war with us.

"China is bitterly anti-Japanese, China is the friend of America, and if Japan went to war with America, the Chinese would cease utterly to buy Japanese goods and would do everything in their power to keep Japan from getting foodstuffs or other materials, including coal and iron, from China.

"Siberian 'Partisans,' those terrible guerrillas with hate in their hearts from the barbarities inflicted upon them by Japanese soldiers, would sweep down from their remote villages and massacre Japanese garrisons.

"Koreans, full of zeal for independence and even now kept in subjection only by sternest methods and at great cost, would become a terrible thorn in the side of Japan.

"Great Britain is not required by her alliance with Japan to join in such a war. She modified the treaty of alliance in 1911 to avoid that very possibility. The English people certainly would not permit their government to take the side of the Japanese against America.

"A friend of mine had the pleasure recently of hearing a British naval officer tell a Japanese naval officer that 90 days would be the limit of duration of a Japanese-American war once the American fleets had started.

"We possess a navy much stronger than Japan's—more ships, a preponderance of guns, better marksmanship. And back of the navy we have a vast, populous country of illimitable resources. Japan is too little, too poor, too weak in natural resources to hope for victory, and Japan knows defeat would be her fate.

"What would defeat now mean to Japan? It would bring:

"Her forced evacuation of East Siberia and Saghalien.

"Her surrender of her exclusive rights in Manchuria and Mongolia.

"Her loss of Port Arthur and the Liaotung peninsula.

"Her unconditional restoration of Shantung to China.

"Her loss of Korea, for our people would demand that some sort of protectorate be established over Korea till her people should be ready for self-government.

"These would be the peace conditions of the United States and all the world would applaud."

Sultan's Gift To Italy

A gift of peculiar interest to the Christian world is the cœnaculum, or the room of the Last Supper, which, according to La Tribuna of Rome, has just been present to the King of Italy by the Turkish Sultan. The house in which this room is situated was a place of pilgrimage in the ancient Church as early as the beginning of the second century. It was for many years the only church in Jerusalem being known in religious history as the Church of Zion, or the Church of the Apostles. It fell into the hands of the Moslems in the sixteenth century and, transformed into a mosque, it has since been closed to Christians.

This house, according to tradition, belonged to Mary, the mother of Saint Mark the Evangelist, and reference is made by ancient writers to its existence in 130 A. D. It was the one holy site open to the first Christian pilgrims to Jerusalem, for the hill of the crucifixion was inaccessible to the pilgrims, while the place of Christ's burial was concealed by piles of earth and stone, the mound thus created being crowned with a statue of Venus. It was not until the fourth century that Constantine the Great uncovered the cave where the body of Jesus had been laid by Joseph of Arimathea, marked the site of the Crucifixion and built the Church of the Holy Sepulchre.

Besides being the scene of the Last Supper the room, according to scared history and and tradition, was also the place where Christ showed Himself after His resurrection, where the election of Matthias to the apostolate took place, where Peter came after his liberation from prison and where the first Christians assembled to break bread.

The room, which was on the second floor of the house, has been described as "a hall of goodly proportion." Some of the drawings of the Last Supper in the catacombs at Rome, it has been asserted, picture this room. It has been represented too in early Italian mosaic and marble works. Leonardo da Vinci in his famous painting at Milan and Von Gebhardt in a more recent canvas have given to us their conceptions of this, perhaps the last, meeting place of Christ with all His Disciples.

While the building survived the ravages of the Romans in the early Christian era, it was partly destroyed by the Saracens in the eleventh century. It was restored by the Crusaders and turned over to the care of the Augustine monks, but later it was again demolished and rebuilt. When it was taken by the Moslems in the sixteenth century it was in the hands of the Franciscans. After having been held by the Turks for almost four venturies it is finally turned over to Italy, a tribute from the Sultan to Italian interest in Turkey's fate. The building will be restored again to its place as a holy shrine and as one of the important Christian memorials in Jerusalem.—New York Herald.

ENTERPRISE

An advertisement by an enterprising firm attracts my attention to a very neat little contrivance which has the effect of making the average soft collar look like some regular collar, instead of the shabby, corrugated ruin which hangs round some men's necks, looking like that piece of thick hemp with which condemned men go out to salute the happy morn.

The very apt title given to this masculine benefaction by the Mutiple Proprietary and Utilities Company is the "Support-it." All of which seems to indicate that whenever there is a demand there is always a supply, and tempts me to reproduce from the papers of the future a few advertisements just to show the strides likely to be made.

THE WHISKER CRADLE

"Does your moustache droop? Does it drop into your tea or your soup? Then wear one of our whisker cradles. All you have to do is to thread the whiskers through the cradle, attach the screws to the upper lip, and secure it with a belt over the ears."

"Don't let your moustache drop in the mud."

Testimonials: "Just what was wanted. I am getting measured for one." Mr. Vident.

The Whisker Cradle is made of all steel throughout, and fitted with a little oil bath. No meddlesome three-speeds. Made by all the All Steel Supply Co. By wearing one of these cradles you can use your moustache as a hat-rack.

WHY BOTHER WITH A TROUSERS PRESS? WEAR B. S. A. TROUSERS.

Do your trousers bag at the knees? No more baggy trousers. Abandon the trousers press and have a Permanent Crease.

The Balham Steel Company are now making cast-iron trousers with permanent crease down the front. No buttons to break off. Our trousers are fitted with rivets instead. The crease never goes. Rain does not affect it. The only way you can remove the crease from our Iron Trousers is by heating the trousers to a white heat in the fire, and beating the crease out with a hammer.

Be smart. Be Dressy. Wear B. S. A. Trousers.

No shoehorn needed to put these trousers on. Just a spanner—that's all. One pair sent in crate free on rail for £4. Write for samples.

THE FOOD UPLIFT

Mr. Walter M. Gallichan, described as a food expert, has been writing to the papers to the effect that proper feeding will often dispel depression of spirits. Pass me the Lyre:

A feeling of sadness hangs o'er me;
I am so intensely depressed.
So Phyllis is placing before me
Some chicken—a bit of the breast.
Peche Melba will quickly restore me,
I hope to my usual state;
And bright as a button
Sustained by roast mutton
I'll soon be quite gay and elate.

* * *

Once more I'm a martyr to worry;
I feel I might do something rash.
Away to the river I'll hurry
And end all my woes in a splash.
I've only had lobster and curry
Welsh rarebit—a couple, no more—
Some walnuts, port wine
And black coffee divine,
But I feel more depressed than before!

ABOUT NATHANIEL

Did you ever hear the story of Nathaniel and the thunder? In case the answer is in the negative, here it is.

Nathaniel, who was of an enquiring turn of mind, demanded to know what was meant by such a great noise as sometimes coincided with darkness and rain.

"Thunder," said the Infallible "is the voice of God."

One day when Nathaniel was taking a country walk with the baby and nurse, a thunderstorm began. Grabbing the pram, nurse urged Nathaniel to make all possible speed. As he stumped along on his sturdy, fat legs there came another crash. This was too much for Nathaniel's sense of justice. He stopped.

"I hear you, God. But I'm going as fast as I can. You must 'member I'm only four years old."

Widows Of Our Wars

Pensions In Force From Revolution, Including Daughters Of Soldiers

BY RENE BACHE
(New York Times)

The list of Uncle Sam's women pensioners is now headed by Edith Carow Roosevelt, relict of the late ex-President, whose allowance is $5,000 a year—this being an annuity which, in obedience to custom, Congress grants to the widow of any former President.

The next largest pension, $2,500 per annum, is paid to Irene R. Sheridan, widow of General Philip Sheridan. Third in size is the allowance made to Mary S. Logan, widow of Major Gen. John A. Logan, who draws $2,000 a year. Fourth is an annuity of $1,500 settled by the Government upon Emily Reed, widow of Major Walter Reed, the army Surgeon who conferred such a boon upon mankind by proving the guilt of the mosquito that carries yellow fever.

There are, in addition, twelve widows who draws pensions of $1,200 a year each. Here is the list:

Annie F. Chaffee, widow of Lieut. Gen. Adna R. Chaffee; Frances Corse, widow of Major Gen. John M. Corse; Elizabeth C. Custer, widow of General George A. Custer; Louisa V. Kilpatrick, widow of Major Gen. Judson Kilpatrick; Eda B. Funston, widow of Major Gen. Fred Funston; Fanny M. Gibbon, widow of Major Gen. John Gibbon; Matilda Gresham, widow of Brig. Gen. Walter Q. Gresham; Mary P. MacArthur, widow of Lieut. Gen. Arthur MacArthur; Annie R. Schley, widow of Rear Admiral Winfield S. Schley; Mary A. Shields, widow of Brig. Gen. James Shields; Martha L. Sternberg, widow of Brig. Gen. George M. Sternberg, and Emily F. Warren, widow of Major Gen. Gouverneur K. Warren.

All of these women are beneficiaries of special acts of Congress, the pension in each instance being granted in recognition of exceptional service performed by the departed husband of the recipient.

All other widows receiving annuities under our pension system get $30 a month, with $6 a month added for each child under sixteen years of age. These include widows of the war of 1812, of the Indian wars, of the war with Mexico and of the civil war.

WORLD WAR WIDOWS

Provision for the widows of the recent World War is made under a wholly different system, operated by the War Risk Bureau. The allowance in each instance, termed "compensation," is $25 a month; to which is added $10 a month for the first child, $7.50 for the second, $5 for the third and $5 for the fourth.

The widow of any officer or soldier of our previous wars receives, under the old pension system, $30 a month, but the relict of a man who fought in the great war gets nothing unless her husband lost his life in the line of duty as a member of our forces, or died afterward from a cause traceable to his war service. Under either the old system or the new War Risk system, a widow continues to draw her allowance only so long as she remains a widow.

Every officer and enlisted man who took part in the recent conflict was represented in the Government files by an indexed card, which, if he was married, bore the name and address of his wife. If he died in the service, a blank was immediately mailed to his widow for her to fill in with an application for her "compensation" allowance—said application to be mailed back to the War Risk Bureau, with a copy of her marriage certificate, birth certificates of her children, if any, and affidavits.

The War Risk Bureau has not yet counted up the number of widows of the World War. Sudden war marriages, precipitated by the expected departure of our fighting men to Europe, added, in the ultimate event, a great many to the list. If, for a guess, the number be reckoned at 72,000, Uncle Sam's total monthly payment to widows on account of the World War must be $1,800,000, without counting allowances for children.

Please let it be understood that what follows refers not to the World War or its widows, but to the widows of our previous wars, who draw their $30 a month under the long-established pension system.

It is interesting to observe that these widows are now the most numerous class of Uncle Sam's pensioners. At the close of the last fiscal year there were on the pension list 46,580 more civil war widows than veteran survivors of that war—290,100 of the former against 243,520 of the latter.

As time goes on the disproportion in favor of the widows will become steadily greater, for the reason that so many old soldiers' wives are younger than their husbands. Veterans of the civil war are dying at a rate of nearly 30,000 a year, but their wives are not passing off the scene nearly so fast.

FOR THE PENSION'S SAKE

Formerly it was the case that many women were willing and even eager to marry old soldiers for the sake of the widow's pension that would give them annuities for the life after the war-worn veterans had departed. No old soldier was too far advanced in age or decrepitude to have a matrimonial value. In fact, commercially speaking, that value might be said to increase as he approached the grave.

An effective stop has been put to this business, however, by a law which denies a pension to the widow of any civil war veteran unless the marriage took place before June 27, 1905. Thus at the present time there is no money in this form of enterprise from the women's point of view.

A fixed income, which could be transmitted after death as an estate, had its bearing upon the question of marriage under the old dispensation. Young girls often married aged veterans; and, were it not for the provision of the recent law above quoted, quite a number of civil war widows might be expected to survive the beginning of the twenty-first century. A good many destined widows of men who fought in that conflict would at the present time be small children learning their a, b, c's, save for this legislative restriction.

To show how this sort of thing works out, consider the case of the widows of the American Revolution. In the first year of the present century there still survived four pensioned widows of men who fought in that war. These were:

Esther S. Damon, 87 years old, widow of Noah Damon, Plymouth Union, Vt. Nancy Jones, 87 years old, widow of James Darling (first husband), Jonesboro, Tenn.

Rebecca Mayo, 88 years old, widow of Stephen Mayo, Newbern, Va.

Mary Snead, 85 years old, widow of Bowdoin Snead, Parkesley, Va.

The last survivor of these four, Esther S. Damon, died at Plymouth Union, Nov. 11, 1906, aged 92 years. She was drawing a pension for her husband's services in the Revolution a century and a quarter after that war came to an end.

DAUGHTERS OF REVOLUTION

As a matter of curious interest, it is worth mentioning that five daughters of men who fought in the Revolution, all of them pensioned by special acts of Congress, were still alive and drawing their allowances in the first year of the present century. These were:

Hannah N. Barrett, 101 years old, daughter of Noah Harrod, Boston, Mass.

Susannah Chadwick, 86 years old, daughter of Elihu Chadwick, Emporium, Pa.

Sarah C. Hurlbutt, 83 years old, daughter of Elijah Weeks, Little Marsh, Pa.

Rhoda A. Thompson, 80 years old, daughter of Thaddeus Thompson, Woodbury, Conn.

Augusta Tuller (age not stated), daughter of Isaac Way, Bridgeport, Conn.

Twenty-two thousand six hundred and forty-four widows of Revolutionary soldiers were pensioned. By special acts Congress granted pensions to eighteen daughters of men who fought in that war.

Esther S. Damon, the last of the Revolutionary widows, was born in Plymouth in 1814. At 21 years of age she was married to Noah Damon, then 76 years old, who had served in the Massachusetts Continentals. Damon died in 1853.

The last surviving soldier of the Revolution, Daniel F. Bakeman, died April 5, 1869, in the village of Freedom, N. Y., at the age of one hundred and nine years six months and a few days. Notwithstanding his extraordinary longevity, it will be noticed that the last widow, Mrs. Damon, did not leave this world until nearly thirty-eight years later.

Only 148 men who fought in the Mexican war are now alive, but pensioned widows of veterans of that historic struggle today number 2,423.

Twenty years ago about one-fourth of the names on the pension roll were those of widows. A few years later they numbered one-third. Now they are more than half of the entire number.

The time is coming before very long when the civil war widows will outnumber the civil war veterans in as marked a proportion as Mexican war widows now outnumber the surviving soldiers of that conflict.

The manufacture of war widows was in former days quite an industry. Unscrupulous persons made a business of studying the records of the national cemeteries, ascertaining the names and services of soldiers there buried, and employing women to represent themselves as the widows of these soldiers.

Three brothers at Quincy, Ill., built up a very profitable trade in this line. The eldest looked like Horace Greeley, and his benevolent countenance was a great help. The brothers employed women to personate the widows of dead bachelor soldiers, acted as attorneys in procuring pensions for them, executed the requisite vouchers and forged the indorsements on the pension checks. They even forged the seal of the court.

The Pension Bureau nowadays is more wary, and the system it adopts for the prevention of fraud is so thorough and effective that swindles have small chance of success.

When is a widow not a widow? This is sometimes a most difficult question to decide where relicts of old soldiers are concerned. Rigorous law demands clear proof of the validity of the marriage relation as a condition precedent to the granting of a widow's pension; but this is not always easy for her to furnish.

A soldier's widow, after being a wife for a long period of time, may be called on to prove whether he was ever married before, and, if so, what became of his former wife or wives.

Often husbands are not communicative on the subject of their previous history. The wife in such a case is likely to feel no concern about the matter until, becoming a widow, she learns to her dismay that she is denied a pension because she is unable to prove that the soldier was legally divorced from a former spouse of whom she never heard.

Questions of death or divorce may be carried back thirty or fifty years, to prove or disprove the validity of an old soldier's long established marital relation. Confusion of marriage laws greatly aggravates the trouble. Scarce in any two States of the Union are they the same. A marriage may be valid in one State and not in another. A divorce in one State may deny the right of remarriage to one party or the other; in another State it may free both the man and the woman absolutely.

What seems to be needed is action by Congress modifying the existing law in some such way as to grant recognition of widowhood in all cases where the woman and the old soldier have lived together as man and wife for a specified length of time.

Sir Robert Horne's Gifts

"Sir Robert Horne is by common consent, the most successful of all the new Ministers," writes Mr. Harry Jones in the Daily News.

"He is one of a group of Glasgow men—including Lord Inverforth, Lord Weir, and Sir Joseph Maclay—who offered their services to the Government during the war and did admirable work in various capacities.

"Born in 1871, son of a Presbyterian minister, he was educated at Glasgow University, where he had a distinguished career and was a prominent figure on the Conservative side. Called to the Scottish Bar in 1896, he rapidly made his way as an advocate and became K.C. in 1910. He was unsuccessful Parliamentary candidate for Stirlingshire at the two elections of 1910, but was elected for the Hillhead Division of Glasgow by a majority of 8,700 in December, 1918.

"Though he has only been in the House of Commons since January, 1919, Sir R. Horne has already built up a considerable Parliamentary reputation. Unlike many clever lawyers, he took to Parliamentary life from the outset as though it was his native element. He is a pithy, forceful speaker, with a ringing voice and a good presence. His geniality, vitality, and sense of humor have helped to win for him the regard of the House.

"There were many murmurs when the Prime Minister appointed this Scottish Tory lawyer, so new to Parliamentary life, as Minister of Labor. It soon appeared that the appointment was an excellent one, for Horne displayed unexpected sympathy with Labor's point of view and a veritable genius for conciliation. The Board of Trade is a very different Department, and it remains to be seen whether he will be as successful there as he was at the Ministry of Labor. He is a man of real capacity, with uncommon gifts of character and intellect, and a cheery, wholesome nature—emphatically a politician with a future.

"He and Mr. Smillie are a well-matched pair. The two Bobs, haggling over the demand for an extra two bob a day, have had already more than one battle of wits in which honors were easy.

"They are a sharply-contrasted couple, Smillie grim and dour, Horne genial and mirthful."

BRITAIN DECORATES RESIDENT AT KOBE

Mr. H. L. Hitchcock, a member of the Kobe office of the Hongkong-Shanghai Banking Corporation, was decorated on Armistice Day with the Member of the Order of the British Empire.

The British Consul General, Mr. Ralph G. E. Forster, in bestowing the medal conveyed gracious messages from King George. Mr. Hitchcock responded briefly.

Members of the British War Veterans Association of Kobe and about 100 prominent British residents, including several ladies, attended the ceremony, which was held in Mr. Forster's official chamber. The room was decorated with portraits of King George and Queen Mary and a large Union Jack.

Mr. Hitchcock was a lieutenant in the Suffolk Regiment.

KOREAN CURRENCY COPIED IN SIBERIA

According to the Nichi Nichi an organised plot has been discovered in Siberia aiming at the destruction of the Japanese monetary system by counterfeiting Bank of Korea notes.

The counterfeiting has been carried on by insurgent Koreans in co-operation with the Bolsheviks at various points in Siberia.

The authorities and the officials of the Bank of Korea are busily engaged in detecting the counterfeited notes already set in circulation, while taking the necessary measures to prevent their importation in Korea and Japan proper.

The Nichi Nichi further says that there are indications that one hundred million yen of Bank of Korea notes have already been counterfeited at Irkutsk under the supervision of a German expert. These counterfeits are executed in such a way that none other than an expert will distinguish them from the genuine notes.

KIOTO IN PROTEST AGAINST POSTERS

Kioto has raised a strong protest against the proposal of the Government to allow telegraph and telephone poles to be used for advertising purposes. With a view to obtaining a new annual revenue of Y. 400,000, the Department of Communications has recently decided to lease part of the posts for advertising purposes. For the purpose of exclusively handling post advertisements, a new advertising agency capitalised at Y. 1,000,000 was organised last month.

However, owing to the fact that the City of Kioto is one of the principal centers for foreign tourists and native pilgrims, this idea is radically opposed both by the municipal officials and the citizens on the grounds that it will greatly impair the beauty of the city.

HONGKONG SNATCHER HOLDS UP WOMAN

Mrs. Pope reported to the Hongkong Police that on Wednesday afternoon, November 10, while she was walking down the footpath from her house, No. 1, Merrison Hill Road, to the main road, she was accosted half way down by a Chinese who produced an envelope and asked her in good English to direct him to the residence of the addressee.

While Mrs. Pope was examining the envelope, the man suddenly whipped out a knife and cut the strap of the handbag which was hanging from her right arm, and in doing so slashed her wrist.

Before Mrs. Pope was aware of what had happened the thief was well down the hill and quickly disappeared.

The handbag contained $500 in notes.

About the end of last month Mrs. Pope lost a handbag containing $200 in a similar manner near the Central Market.—(South China Morning Post)

KRUPPS SUPPLYING JAVA LOCOMOTIVES

American firms are rather chagrined to learn by a report from an authoritative source that Krupps, despite shortage of raw materials, have been able to underbid them in a tender for 83 locomotives for the Java State Railways.

As to how far the depreciated mark was the basis of the deal there is no information, but with Krupps reorganised to produce engines of peace, the American steel works are expected to compete on a less profitable scale as regards various products than previously.

At the present time home orders and not foreign make up the bulk of the business in American plants.

JAPANESE CONTROL TSINGTAO COAST SALT

Since the organisation of the Salt Manufacturing Company last year by the Japanese in Tsingtao most of the salt fields have been either "purchased" or commandeered along the coasts of Tsingtao and Kiaochow Bay and the Chinese salt producers have been compelled either directly or indirectly to abandon their occupation and move out of the region in quest of other means of livelihood.

The original capital of the company was $500,000, but as the supply has failed to meet the increasing demand of the market, it has now been decided that another large sums should be raised to make up the capital sufficient for the requirements of the enterprise.

According to reliable reports more than 100 tons of salt daily have been transported into Chinkou, Weihsien and other interior districts, where the market is full of Japanese or illicit salt. Numerous smugglers are being strongly backed by foreigners. As the illegal salt has competed successfully with the salt properly taxed by the Government, the Central Government is devising means to stop their lawlessness in order to protect the interest of the bondholders of the Reorganisation Loan.

FORMER JUDGE AT COLOMBO IS DEAD

The death has occurred of Mr. Dodwell F. Browne. The older members of the Ceylon Bar still retain the pleasantest recollections of this genial personality, whose association with the Ceylon Courts dated from 1872, when he was enrolled as an Advocate, having been called to the bar in England six year earlier.

He was appointed District Judge of Colombo in 1893 and retired in his sixty-first year, a decade later.

While holding the permanent judicial appointment on the District Court Bench he was on several occasions appointed as commissioner of Assize and to act Puisne Justice.

RABID DOG BITES KOBE FOREIGN CHILD

In connection with the appearance of rabid dogs in Kobe, as already reported, the child of a foreigner living at Nozaki-dori, 2-chome, Fukai, was, according to Japanese papers, bitten on the morning of the 31st ultimo near Kamitsutsui-dori, 3-chome, Fukiai. The victim was at once taken to the Prefectural Hospital for treatment, while the dog is now under examination.

TO TREAT FOREIGNERS AS NATIVES IN DAIREN

The Seoul Press quotes a report from Manchuria stating that in view of the increased crimes committed by foreigners in Dairen city of late and especially owing to a rather wild rumor that the smuggling into Manchuria of counterfeit Y. 100 notes of the Bank of Korea and the Yokohama Specie Bank to the amount of Y. 3,000,000 was schemed by Judaic refugees in Shanghai, the Japanese Authorities there have decided to be more strict than before in enforcing the established rule as regards foreigners in the city by treating Japanese, Chinese and foreigners all alike without discrimination.

They will order the waterpolice to notify all foreign vessels entering the port to that effect. Concerning this, it is stated that the foreign consuls at Dairen will unite in the efforts of the authorities to attain the object aimed at by the latter, being favorably impressed with the decision. At present there are 57 Russians, 56 Britishers, two Dutchmen, five Germans, six Americans, 11 Greeks, two Poles and two Danes in the city, making an aggregate of 141.

TYPHOID IN KOREA; CHOLERA DISAPPEARS

Cholera has disappeared in Seoul but its place has been taken by typhoid, which is reported by the Seoul Press to be rampant, as many as four hundred persons including several high officials of the Government-General, having so far been attacked by it. There are indications of the epidemic spreading, in spite of the precautionary measures taken by the sanitary authorities.

Dr. Shiga, the Director of the Government-General Hospital states that an anti-typhoid injection would be the shortest way for the suppression of the epidemic. It may be suggested however, that the inoculation of the people for cholera has made them more susceptible to typhoid.

RICE WAREHOUSE PLANNED BY JAPAN

According to the Mainichi, Mr Hara, the Premier, has a strong faith in the establishment of permanent rice warehouses as an effectual means of settling the food question in Japan, and is consequently firmly determined to carry out the project of their establishment with approval of the next session of the Diet.

Viscount Takahashi, the Minister of Finance, and other financial authorities are, on the other hand strenuously opposed to the idea on the ground that it is difficult to find the necessary money. It is even reported that Viscount Takahashi would sooner resign than give countenance to such a project.

It remains to be seen how the Premier will induce the Finance Minister to support his view and how the Government can contrive to find the requisite money.

At any rate, the Mainichi learns that the Premier's mind is made up on the plan, and that he is ready to have recourse to loans and other means for the purpose of obtaining the funds to finance the project.

He might point out, that the scheme has greater potentialities than a battleship and costs no more. Why not postpone the scheme for fortifying the Bonins and Pescadores, asks the Kobe Chronicle.

SILK MARKET IN JAPAN STEADIER

Filatures' Resolution To Stop Operations 78 Days Followed By Optimism

EXPORTERS ARE CAUTIOUS

Business On Yokohama Exchange Exceedingly Slack, Despite Better Feeling

Tokio, November 13.—Apparently filatures' resolution to stop operations 78 days has encouraged waste silk holders and producers. Their attitude is firmer than a few day ago. But exporters in the waste silk market remain quietly out of the market and business is again slack.

Among waste silk holders opinion is obtaining that 78 days' closure of all filatures is a negative measure but still a good stimulus to the market which has been depressed under the weight of an over stocked cargo. Yesterday's Yokohama report even stated that provincial producers became markedly more chary of sales, some of them trying to raise their quotations.

FEW STILL PESSIMISTIC

However, among them there are still a few holding a pessimistic views of future. A Yokohama man stated yesterday that the effect of the resolution by filatures was viewed with too much optimism by those people. In the past many such resolutions were passed by filatures, but it is not saying too much to state that none of them was carried out faithfully. If it is conceeded that the new one will be carried out literally, it is to be noted that the closure of filatures from December 25 to February's close is customary in Shinshu. In other districts, too, January or February is their holiday season. The net decrease of production is smaller than the resolution indicates.

"Moreover," said the man further, "the consumption of waste silk this year is roughly one third of last year as indicated by the occasional purchases of exporters and the number of spindles run by Japanese spinners. Six months' requirement in the past can now cover one and a half years' needs. It is, therefore, no sensible policy to lay much hope in that resolution and buy ahead."

EXPORTERS ALOOF

Exporters yesterday apparently shared in this latter view of the future and kept completely aloof, waiting for holders' concessions. No business was reported. Only on holders' faith in filatures' resolution the market tone was maintained.

Apparently holders and reelers have found in filatures' resolution of Wednesday night a reason to be cheerful and optimistic. Yesterday they had more news in their favor. The Teikoku Sanshi Kaisha held a meeting of directors yesterday afternoon when it was decided to start investigations into the cargo available for its purchase. The buying pool has also reported that it had reached an understanding with bankers that as soon as its meeting Monday, November 22, passed the board's recommendation to pay more stock capital or make more workable the board the promised advance of capital would be begun. Next week the board will on its own responsibility begin to cover cargo in the market on strength of that understanding.

ESTIMATE POOL AT 30,000 BA

Opinion differed very much yesterday among silk men at Yokohama as to the volume of cargo covered by the pool. Some people conservatively estimated it at 30,000 bales, but the others believed that it would be up to 50,000 bales. However, exporters showed no disposition to resume active buying yesterday on the ground that all news from abroad was unfavorable, showing the dearth of business in the market. The export market was as quiet as a holiday.

Accordingly on the Yokohama Exchange this morning people felt a measure of uneasiness. Some of them even declared that as long as exporters kept aloof the market prospect was dark and that the buying by the pool would result only in keeping up the price above 150 Yen, and not in restoring the market to normal activity. All through the morning hours sales were often resumed and the price got exceedingly unstable. Although November turned round the point of Y.156.70 to Y.156.60 March fell away from Y.165 at the opening to Y.162.50.

In the afternoon on the Yokohama Exchange some attempts were made by buyers to arrest the decline, but the price still turned the morning's points, business being exceedingly slack.
